Max Schmeling May Says Philippines Train At Greenkill Would Be As Great Park For Next Fight A Liability To Japan

World's Heavyweight Champion May Select Site Near Kingston to Train For Championship Bout on June 16 Against Jack Sharkey.

Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight champion, who defends his title against Jack Sharkey at Yankee stadium on June 16, may train at Greenkill Park if Kingston people interested in the matter can complete arrangements within the next few days. Major Hart of the Chamber of Commerce has been in communication with Joe Jacobs and Billy McCahey and after an inspection of the site is ideal for the training camp. Major Hart has had several conferences with McCarthy, partner of Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, and on Monday an inspection was made of the property at Greenkill Park and McCarthy pronounced the site the best which has yet been offered.

Publicity for City. Major Hart became interested in the matter from the view-point of publicity for Kingston. Schmeling locates here the eyes of the sport world will be directed here during his training. Thousands of people interested in the match will visit Kingston to watch the heavyweight train. There will be a host of newspaper men from all over the country here and Kingston would receive much publicity. Radio broadcasts originating at the camp would be sent out over a nationwide hook-up and at least one international broadcast would originate here. Details of the matter will be supplied by Major Hart at the Chamber of Commerce offices.

Attention was first directed to Ulster county when Richard G. Armstrong endeavored to get Schmeling to train at Holly Arms in Rosendale. Attention was directed to Ulster county but by reason of the inaccessibility of Rosendale Mr. Armstrong gave way to the Kingston interests and attention was called to Greenkill Park.

Pleased With Park. Billy McCahey visited Greenkill Park and looked over the buildings at the park as well as the facilities for training and decided that of all the places thus far offered Greenkill Park was best equipped. Schmeling does none of the usual road work which most champions devote much time to. His active nature keeps him in trim. The closeness of the golf course, the tennis courts at Greenkill Park and the general layout of the buildings makes the spot ideal for the purpose.

Wildwood cottage may be used by Schmeling and the immediate circle of officials including his trainer, manager and McCarthy. Sparring partners would be cared for at The Maples cottage and the office building at Greenkill Park will give ample accommodations for press representatives. The Casino will be used for indoor training and the tennis courts provide ample space for outdoor training purposes. Just on top of the hill is the Greenkill Park golf course and Schmeling devotes much of his time to golf.

Several offers have been made by various cities; towns and individuals and definite word must be had by Thursday when papers must be signed. Major Hart expects to visit local people during the next two days and ascertain whether suitable arrangements had been completed by Thursday. A conference was had Monday afternoon and at that time Major Hart was able to hold McCarthy in line until Thursday and no definite decision will be made until that time.

To Decide Thursday. Arrangements must be completed by Thursday of this week in order that the camp, if Schmeling decides to train here, may be placed in shape by May 7. Schmeling will conclude a tour and after a few days of rest would arrive at the camp on May 8 or 9 and start training on May 12. According to the schedule of training as set down by Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, he would train each Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday and Sunday during his stay at the camp. This would be continued up to and including the Sunday previous to the date of the match and Schmeling would not leave the camp until Wednesday, the day prior to the date of the match.

One thing which made the Greenkill Park site of particular interest was the accommodations for the camp attendants and the members of the press. Schmeling usually has at least three or four sparring partners at a time and these men are changed as required.

Radio Broadcast. Arrangements have been about completed with Schmeling's manager for a radio broadcast over a nationwide hook-up during the training period no matter where the camp may be located. At 7 o'clock each Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening there will be a direct broadcast from the camp. Due to the interest in the match abroad there will be one international hook-up. It will be necessary to find quarters for the news-reel picture men who always are a part of a training camp. When he left town last Monday afternoon Billy McCahey stated that he would hold the matter open until Thursday in order to hear Kingston's decision.

This morning McCarthy informed The Freeman by telegram that he and Joe Jacobs would return to Kingston today. McCarthy is apparently well pleased with the Greenkill Park location and several of the sport writers from the metropolitan papers have expressed their liking for the Kingston location.

Tokyo, April 5 (AP).—Possession or domination of the Philippines "would be as great a liability to Japan as it has been to the United States," a government spokesman said today, commenting on Secretary of State Stimson's suggestion that withdrawal of American sovereignty would result in the domination of the islands by some foreign power, "probably either China or Japan."

The spokesman expressed the belief that the Japanese government would willingly enter into a treaty with America perpetually guaranteeing the neutrality and independence of the islands in the event they gain their freedom.

The passage of the Hare independence bill in Congress yesterday surprised official quarters here, in which Philippine independence has been regarded merely as a possibility for the distant future.

"We have declared for many years past and we reiterate now," the spokesman said, "that Japan has no desire to acquire the Philippines. We are unable to see any advantage to Japan if America grants their independence. We are chiefly interested in the islands as a profitable market near home, but we doubt whether independence would improve that market. Probably the reverse would happen."

He pointed out that Japan heretofore has been "unable to fully digest Formosa" and that the Philippines have a much larger area and population, with intricate problems of many races, presenting much greater difficulties for "digestion."

Veto Hinted for Act to Free Philippines

Washington, April 5 (AP).—A veto apparently waits at the White House for legislation to grant independence to the Philippine Islands by an astonishing margin—306 to 47—the House bill under which independence would come after eight or ten years, passed the House yesterday. Later this session, perhaps this month, this bill or a substitute for it will be taken up in the Senate, with fair chances of passage. It may, therefore, be up to the President to meet this long-standing issue. The two members of his cabinet most concerned in the question, are definitely and sharply opposed.

The House action, taken under the most stringent rules invoked since the Democrats took control, followed reading of a letter from Secretary Stimson in which turning loose the islands was condemned strongly. It preceded by a short time a jaunt: "Just giving President Hoover something else to veto," uttered by Secretary Hurley. He qualified this remark under questioning, however, by observing it was "very hard" to determine what the President would do, meantime predicting "fireworks" in the Senate.

Harrison Against Payment of Bonus

Washington, April 5 (AP).—The pinch of national economy brought a declaration today from Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking Democrat on the finance committee, against full payment of the veterans' bonus certificates.

Citing the two billion dollar deficit in prospect for the government this year and the pending bill to raise new taxes, Harrison said: "I regret that existing conditions impel me, in the interest of the country, to oppose the legislation at this time." The stand taken by Harrison, coupled with the known view of other Senate leaders, is believed to doom any prospect of enactment into law of the bonus payment measure.

In his statement, the Democratic financial leader of the Senate pointed out that one billion dollars of the four billion dollar government budget now goes to the relief of war veterans.

Finland Becomes Legally Wet Today

Helsingfors, Finland, April 5 (AP).—Hundreds of Finland's citizens lined up before Helsingfors liquor shops this morning for the first legal sale of liquor in thirteen years. The first arrivals began to gather up before the doors at 5 a. m., although the shops were not to open until 10 o'clock. The longest lines were in the working class sections of the city. Order prevailed everywhere, however.

Tables for tonight have been booked at many restaurants for several weeks, but protests by the restaurateurs against the low proportion of their profits, as fixed by the government regulations, may curtail the celebrations somewhat.

The Helsingfors police department issued a notice that it would arrest every person caught drunk.

Sale of Stock Seal.

New York, April 5 (AP).—The sale of a New York Stock Exchange seat was arranged today at $82,000, unchanged from the previous sale closed yesterday.

Three Masons Were Honored Monday by Rondout Lodge

Louis B. Basten, C. Beekman Jansen and Reuben Riel Round Out Fifty-third Anniversary in Masonic Life—Presented With Pins—Raised in 1882.

Louis B. Basten, C. Beekman Jansen and Reuben Riel of this city, who this year celebrated their golden anniversary as Masons, were the guests of honor at Veterans' Night held by Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., on Monday evening in the Masonic Building, Broadway and Strand. All three men were raised as Master Masons in 1882, just fifty years ago.

The fifty year veterans were presented with appropriate pins by Past Master P. H. Carey in behalf of the lodge in which they began their Masonic life.

Two other veterans were also present at the meeting: James Longue, who was raised a Master Mason in 1867, and Joseph Hutton, Jr., who became a Master Mason in 1880.

Four men who have rounded out forty years as Master Masons were also present and were honored. The four were Theodore J. Mayer, William J. Turck, David Wetterhahn and Carl Rausch. There are several other members of Rondout Lodge who have been Masons for forty years but they were unable to be present that evening.

Following the presentation of pins to the three veterans, a moving picture showing scenes from the life of George Washington from birth to death, were shown, followed by a social hour and the serving of refreshments.

State Income Tax Man Here April 8-12

Residents of Kingston and vicinity, who have not yet filed their state income tax returns, are urged to do so at once by Cortland A. Wilber, Director of the State Income Tax Bureau.

"We have assigned Auditor R. V. Hayes to Kingston," said Deputy Commissioner Wilber today. "He can be found at the Court House from April 8-12. We feel that because of the change in rates of tax some of the taxpayers may have some difficulty with their returns, but our auditors can easily straighten out any difficulties that might arise. The service is free and we want the citizens to take advantage of it."

The new rates now in effect are two per cent on the first $10,000 of net income, four per cent on the next $40,000 and six per cent on all net income above $50,000. The exemptions remain the same—$2,500 for single persons and $4,000 for married persons or heads of families.

Returns must be filed on or before April 15 and at least 50 per cent of the tax paid at that time. Installment payments are allowed this year.

County Court Met And Adjourned

County court convened Monday afternoon with Judge Frederick G. Traver on the bench. Clerk Simpson called the list of jurors and after excuses were exercised twenty-four jurors remained. The day calendar was made up and court recessed until April 11 at 2 o'clock without a jury. All jurors were excused until April 18 when the trial of civil matters will be taken up. A day calendar for that date was made up. The following cases were placed on the day calendar for April 18 at 2 o'clock:

No. 2, 4, 5, 6, 10, 11, 13, 14, 16, 17, 18.

Henry Myers who has appeared in court on several occasions was present again and his case was adjourned until April 11 at 2 o'clock at the request of Assistant District Attorney J. Edward Conway.

There are 29 civil cases on the April calendar.

No date for the commencing of criminal work has been set. It is not expected that the criminal trial work will be heavy at this time.

Darrow Loses Point In Legal Skirmish Over Jury Selection

Honolulu, April 5 (AP).—An early legal skirmish in the trial of the sensational Kahahawai murder case was lost to a youthful assistant prosecutor by Clarence Darrow.

The dramatic clash between Darrow, bent with age, and relentless young Harry S. Ulrich ended in a victory for Ulrich and the seating of a juror Darrow had tried to show was biased.

Shortly before this court fight, the 74-year-old Chicagoan also lost a point to John C. Kelley, newly appointed public prosecutor, when the court ruled that whether Joseph Kahahawai was innocent or guilty of an assault upon Mrs. Thalia Massie had no bearing on the case.

Mrs. Massie's mother and husband, with two sailors, are on trial for the lynching of the young Hawaiian. The mother, Mrs. Granville Fortescue, sat during the first day of the trial on the same bench as Kahahawai's father, mother and sister.

Nearby, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie bit his lips as he watched Darrow carefully sift the minds of the jurors.

Ulrich Icked.

Darrow's persistence in questioning veniremen had early aroused the ire of Ulrich. The assistant prosecutor shouted angrily "The defense counsel is putting words in the juror's mouth" when the gray haired leader of the defense continued, despite objections, in his efforts to show Henry S. Ulrich, Hawaiian, already had formed an opinion.

Circuit Judge Charles S. Davis permitted the veteran "defender" to continue his penetrating questioning. But Darrow's triumph lasted no longer than his examination of Beckley.

Today Beckley was, as Ulrich wished, among the six tentative jurors—two Chinese, two Americans, a Japanese and a Hawaiian.

For the rest of the week, Darrow indicated, he will make his efforts to select an unbiased jury—no tedious task in the face of the widespread publicity the lynching has received.

When twelve men are seated (women cannot be jurors in Hawaii) each side may exercise 24 peremptory challenges.

Darrow thought the question whether Kahahawai was involved in the assault upon Mrs. Massie last September might have an important bearing on the second degree murder trial. Kahahawai was awaiting retrial with four others when he was abducted and shot January 8.

Mrs. Fortescue, smartly garbed, listened closely to the legal skirmishes, with her cheeks devoid of rouge, she appeared pale. She was accompanied into court by her sister, Mrs. J. L. Ripley of New York.

SMITH STANDARD RAISED FOR BUFFALO PRIMARIES

Buffalo, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Apparently unperturbed by the fact that theirs is the only contest for delegates to the Democratic national convention, former Supreme Court Justice Philip A. Sullivan and Gerhard Lang, Jr., raised the Smith standard in the 41st Congressional District today. They sought election as delegates pledged to support the candidacy of former Governor Alfred E. Smith for the Democratic presidential nomination.

They were opposed by George J. Zimmerman, Erie county Democratic leader, and Anthony J. Walkowiak, long an active leader in Democratic circles. While unpledged, both organizations candidates, in common with most upstate delegates admitted as delegates to the candidacy of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

President Hoover's Plans For Reducing Expenses

Outlines Three General Directions For Cutting Government Expenses—Suggests Creation of Joint Congressional Administration Committee—Chairman Jones Introduces Resolution To Carry Out Presidential Suggestion.

Washington, April 5 (AP).—Answering congressional attacks upon his country's expenditures, President Hoover said today that without the creation of a joint congressional-administration committee to consider the question he could "see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Only a short while before, Speaker Garner had told newspapermen that if the President sent to the Capitol specific suggestions for cutting Federal cash outlays, the House would approve them and do it quickly.

Mr. Hoover, at his semi-weekly press conference, outlined "three general directions" in which he believes Federal expenses may be reduced by as much as $200,000,000 in an effort to balance the budget in conjunction with the new tax bill.

Referring to one of these, reorganization and consolidation of government functions, he asserted he had recommended such a step seven distinct times but that "the action recommended has not been taken."

The other two directions were direct reduction of appropriations and alteration of existing laws to reduce present unnecessary functions.

In the senate, Chairman Jones of the appropriations committee introduced legislation to carry out the Presidential suggestion for a commission to go into the question.

Senator Jones, in guaranteeing house action on specific administration proposals, said "if Mr. Hoover has nothing to recommend, that is a different matter and it is mighty late in the session for him to try to get anything done through a commission."

The Jones resolution was referred to committee where it seems destined to rest a while in view of Democratic disinclination to the move.

Plan National Program.

Senator Jones would have the commission report on a national economy program within 30 days.

After the submission of his special message yesterday, the President was criticized in the senate by Democratic leaders as "shirking responsibility" in the matter of suggesting specific reductions.

Today he asserted that too many congressional committees and too great a number of departments were concerned to secure unanimity of action without the appointment of a central group.

The President's statement follows:

"What I asked for in my message yesterday was organized, non-partisan cooperation by all forces to reduce government expenses in the national emergency which insistently demands relief for the taxpayer."

"There are three general directions in which expenses can be reduced:

"First: The direct reduction of appropriations within authority of existing law creating and specifying various activities of the government."

"A definite program to this end was placed before Congress in the executive budget proposals. In which there was a reduction of $369,000,000 for the forthcoming year. I welcome and hope for further cuts by the Congress providing such reductions do not destroy essential functions, and that they are genuine and do not merely represent postponed appropriations until deficiency bills next December."

"Second: There are a large number of expenditures within the bureaus and departments which cannot be reduced without a change in the laws so that the executive or the appropriations committees can reduce expenditures."

"In this direction the department heads have appeared before many different committees in Congress in the last months, and have pointed out a multitude of directions which could be considered by these committees for a reduction of expenditures, but most of them require repeal or amendment of the laws which compel expenditures."

"Seven departments have pointed out over 67 such different directions for consideration of these committees and which offer a possibility of very large reductions. There are still other areas which could not be developed."

"Third: These directions of economy which can only be accomplished by reorganization and consolidation of government functions so as to eliminate overlap, needless bureaus and commissions and waste."

"Seven years ago, five years ago, as a member of a cabinet committee on the subject, and again three years ago, two years ago, five months ago, four months ago, six weeks ago, I recommended authorization to the executive to make a wholesale reorganization of government functions so as to eliminate this overlap, abolish needless bureaus and commissions, and do away with waste, but such reorganization in each case to be subject to the approval of Congress."

Treasury Receipts.

Washington, April 5 (AP).—Treasury receipts for April 2 were $3,092,338.94; expenditures, $12,917,799.87; balance, $2,621,536,603.18. Customs duties for two days of April were $1,625,098.72.

Not Waging War.

Ithaca, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Rowland Sharp, chairman of the emergency committee of the New York milk shed, today emphasized in a statement that "no war is being waged by the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., against the Sheffield Farms Company, New York city milk distributing concern, a unit of National Dairy Products Company."

There will be a hearing at the court house on April 11 at 11 a. m. on the petition of Henry Myers to operate a bus line from Keator's Corners to the city of Kingston. C. E. Murphy, assistant counsel of the public service commission, will conduct the hearing.

Commission Reports Conditions Found On Hawaiian Islands

Washington, April 4 (AP).—"Extreme laxity" in law enforcement in Hawaii was reported to the Senate today by Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson, but he found no "criminal racket" and an amount of sex crime that "seemed less than reported from many cities and localities of similar population on the mainland."

Attorney General Mitchell sent to the Capitol the bulky report embracing testimony and data gathered by his subordinate as directed by the Senate. It embraced a frank, often trenchant analysis of conditions whittled to widespread discussion this winter after Mrs. Granville Fortescue and others were charged with killing an Hawaiian accused of attacking her daughter. Specifically opposing change in the form of territorial government, Richardson recommended that the federal government "assume closer responsibility" for law and order. He criticized local officials directly for inefficiency and for playing politics. He proposed Presidential appointments of heads of prosecution and police, leading to an island constabulary.

While no evidence of a crime wave was found, Richardson said, an inefficiency in the administration of justice that constitutes an invitation to crime was said to exist. This has led many citizens to feel unsafe, and to a conviction by Richardson "that the unusual conditions of race, society and industry in the territory make a continuance of such laxity fraught with much social and political danger."

Army and navy conditions there were termed "normal," with a lack of racial resentment between the service units and the island population. "While the service units undoubtedly contribute materially to the crime situation," it was said, such conditions are no different from those on the mainland where service men are.

The document said that "public reports with respect to the alleged proclivity of members of the Hawaiian race in sexual crime" were not substantiated by the facts.

It suggested a censorship of moving pictures, taking view that the present class of pictures being shown the youth "might be materially improved."

Serious unemployment was foreseen from importation of labor "together with the education of island youth which results in an unwillingness to do common labor."

Prohibition enforcement was found to compare favorably with conditions on the mainland and there appeared to be "no organized liquor traffic."

Existing "prominent cases" will have to be tried under agencies as they exist, it was said. The judges "seem competent." The present prosecutor also seems competent. And it is to be hoped that the courts of the territory can function fearlessly and efficiently.

On the last point, Richardson commented:

"We have some apprehension as to the effect upon racial antagonism in the territory, due to violent partisanship existing in the islands which respects to the pending rape and murder cases. What that situation may eventually be no man may at this time intelligently foresee."

The police administration in Honolulu was called "impotent, undisciplined, neglectful and unintelligent, with its chief concern political activity." There also Richardson found "an inexperienced, inefficient county attorney, immersed in politics, his deputies largely appointed for political purposes, with insufficient funds at his disposal to provide suitable deputies."

Richardson summarized his own

Mme. Stalin Shy — But Camera Catches Her

Modest Wife Of Soviet Russia's Dictator Snapped On Way To School

Mme. Joseph Stalin, wife of the Soviet dictator, is modest about having her photograph taken. When a cameraman sought to snap her, she pulled her coat collar about her face.

The photographer tried again, and once more Nadya Allilueva, as Madame Stalin is known at the All-Union industrial academy where she is studying, shielded herself with her collar.

A third effort was unavailing, but the fourth proved successful, and this exclusive photograph was obtained. Madame Stalin recently was cited for cutting classes.

Moscow (AP).—"Comrade Nadya Allilueva," as she is known at school, or Mme. Joseph Stalin, "first lady" of Russia by virtue of being the wife of the Soviet dictator, is thoroughly self-effacing, as becomes a true Communist.

She uses her maiden name at the technical school where she is finishing a three-year course in production of artificial silk, because title and rank have no part in the scheme of things hereabouts. Under the philosophy of Lenin, not what a person is but what he or she does, is what counts.

Mme. Stalin is a bit inclined to plumpness but otherwise carries her 30 years with almost girlish aplomb. She dons plain blouses and skirts, combs her long, brown hair straight back from her forehead and twists it into a knot on the back of her head.

She is the second wife of the Soviet leader, having married him in 1919 when she was barely seven-teen. This made her stepmother to a son who is but seven years her junior. She is herself the mother of two children.

Two rooms in the Kremlin constitute the family's home and she travels to and from school on jammed street cars. That trip, back and forth, takes up an hour of her day. The school sessions last seven hours and there is "homework" on her studies to keep her busy in what might otherwise be spare time.

Her school training is designed to fit her to become a managing technician in one of the state-owned factories turning out artificial silk. Most of her school hours now are spent in laboratories with retorts and test tubes under her eye. There are no exceptions made in her honor in the school routine. If she breaks a rule she is "called down." Recently she was "posted" for cutting classes and also for keeping library books too long.

Congress Studies Hawaiian Report

Washington, April 5 (AP).—Congress closed closely today the recommendations of Assistant Attorney General Seth W. Richardson for correcting law enforcement conditions in Hawaii, which he termed an invitation to the commission of crime. Richardson's report on crime and law enforcement on the islands was submitted to the Senate yesterday. Just as the Fortescue case which inspired the request for his investigation, was coming to trial in Honolulu. The justice official advocated assumption of closer responsibility for law and order by the federal government through placing appointment of high officials in the hands of the President; increasing power of the Hawaii governor (a Presidential appointee) to remove officials under him; and reorganizing the court system.

Home thrift begins in the kitchen

At a time when the thought of thrift in every mind, household expenses deserve careful attention. The biggest item of the budget is food. Of course you can't skimp or cut down on purchases, but you can use food so that waste is eliminated and the ultimate in food value is gained from it. That involves proper modern tools for preparing meals.

When you buy a modern gas range, you get more than fine appearance, more even than superior convenience. The biggest gain is in better cooking results. Less food is lost through cooking failures. Accurately controlled temperatures make it almost impossible to burn roasts or ruin bakings. Well-designed top burners get every bit of heat out of the gas that flows through them, and the heat is so controlled that the newer knowledge of cooking for maximum nourishment can be easily and successfully applied.

For the sake of thrift, look beyond the initial investment and see the sound savings in a modern gas range.

Ran So Hard He Got "Charley Horse"

Everett McLaughlin of Port Ewen arrested in a hold on a game of Sunday football to attend court Monday as he was too stiff from running he said.

He ran so fast in a futile effort to escape the police on Sunday afternoon that he got a "Charley horse" in his leg and was stiff and sore all over his body, and that was why he did not appear in police court on Monday to answer to a charge of taking part in a crap game on Sunday afternoon, was the reason advanced by Everett McLaughlin, 54, of Port Ewen, when he was brought to police court next morning to answer to the charge.

Mr. McLaughlin said that he fully intended to appear on Monday in court but was so stiff and sore he was unable to walk. He told Judge Culliton that he did not take part in shooting crap but was just watching the game when the police broke it up Sunday afternoon. The same was being staged under the Roundout Creek bridge.

Judge Culliton said he would suspend sentence.

Drunk at City Hall

Two Boys in Trouble
Last January the fish and poultry market of Edward Kemler at 23 Ann street, was entered and money taken from the cash drawer, and the past Sunday the store was again entered and money stolen.

This morning Kenneth Scott, 17, of 13 West Union street, and Harold Williams, 17, of 27 Meadow street, faced Judge Culliton on charges of third degree burglary. Williams was accused of breaking into the store on Sunday, and Scott with entering it last January.

Judge Culliton fixed bail at $300 in each case and adjourned the hearings for two days to give the boys an opportunity to get in touch with their parents.

gress. The action recommended has not been taken.

"A dominant consideration is that all these items, methods, and programs concern a great number of committees in the Congress. They concern a great number of departments and bureaus.

"If we take the eleven principal spending branches of the government, each of them working independently with some part of over 30 different congressional committees which are concerned in these ideas and proposals, then even if we have the very best will in the world, without an atom of partisanship, the mere diffusion of effort seemingly makes effective progress on important items impossible.

"What I have asked for is not a commission but merely that the Senate and the House should each designate representatives to sit down with representatives from the administration and endeavor to draft a comprehensive, general, national economy bill, covering the second and third areas of possible reduction in expenditures."

"This one single economy bill or a few bills could be presented to the Congress embodying all the measures of economy proposed where change in the laws are necessary. Without such action, I see no way by which there can be a maximum reduction in expenditures."

Lindbergh On Trips; Appeals For Freedom

Trips Believed to Have Connection With Rumors of Ransom Negotiations—Takes Personal Hand in Search.

Hopewell, N. J., April 5 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who won his fame in the air, is using that same element in an attempt to get back his stolen baby.

Optimism permeates the white house on Sourland mountain as the head of the household comes and goes on mysterious airplane journeys.

Twice in three days he has soared away, apparently seeking a yacht off the Massachusetts coast. The trips are believed to have some unexplained connection with rumors that ransom negotiations are being carried on with kidnapers who took Charles A. Lindbergh, 21 months old, from his crib March 1.

Taking a personal hand in the hunt he has appealed for freedom from questioning about his movements.

"Col. Lindbergh feels that under existing circumstances he should be privileged to move without the incumbrance of either check-up or accounting," said a police statement.

Driving his own car, the ailing colonel slipped into his estate last night after his second airplane journey. About 3:30 p. m. yesterday he and his closest friend, Colonel Henry Breckinridge, climbed over a back fence at Newark Airport and sped away in a borrowed plane capable of 180 miles an hour.

Late in the afternoon a plane identified by its number as the craft carrying Lindbergh was seen cruising over Martha's Vineyard island. It was in this vicinity also that Colonel Lindbergh was reported seen flying Sunday, with three other men. Residents of the island said the four had inquired for a small yacht, Sallie.

When Lindbergh and Breckinridge started their flight yesterday, they carried a suitcase and a blanket. Many conjectures arose as to the reason for this, but none was verified.

Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, who called at the Lindbergh home, with his wife, said an "air of optimism" prevailed. Mrs. Hibben said Mrs. Lindbergh was bearing up well.

John Hughes Curtis, one of three Norfolk, Va., intermediaries who believe they have established contact with the kidnapers, was away from his home on another mysterious journey that he lasted since Saturday. There were reports, unconfirmed, that he also had headed for Martha's Vineyard.

Developments in the police hunt in this country were absent, so far as the public was informed, in Great Britain Maj. Charles H. Schofield of the New Jersey state police conferred with Scotland Yard. He spent last night in London, and left his hotel today for an unannounced destination. He had planned yesterday to go to Glasgow.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, in his morning bulletin today, said that his headquarters had not requested the activities in Martha's Vineyard, and they "are probably an independent investigation by some other department."

The police, he said, have had no contact with the kidnapers and have received no information of any kind about the return of the baby. He added that no report has been received at his headquarters indicating that the baby is anywhere in the vicinity of British Honduras, "and no activities are being conducted in this direction."

Filipinos Jubilant Over Their Victory

Manila, P. I., April 5 (AP)—Filipinos were slightly taken back today by their first decisive victory in the 30-year first fight for independence—passage of the Hare bill by the United States House of Representatives.

Although surprised, they were jubilant, and some forecast a similar victory in the United States Senate.

Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate, said the House action "confirms the statement I made three weeks ago to the effect that there is no strong opposition in Congress and therefore legislation granting Philippine independence will be enacted this session."

He hailed congratulations to Filipino leaders of the fight in Washington.

Coupled with jubilation over the forward stride toward a grant of future independence, was the soberness with which Filipinos received Secretary of State Stimson's letter pointing to the international implications involved. Sheltered for centuries by some powerful nation the islanders failed to realize their vulnerable position until it was brought home by the nearness of the recent Sino-Japanese fighting.

General Emilio Aguinaldo, commander of the Philippine insurgents of 32 years ago, expressed opposition to the clauses of the Hare bill providing for retention in the islands of military and naval bases.

Senator Claro M. Recto agreed with him, and the same opposition was expressed by several radical independence organizations.

General Aguinaldo said he did not think President Hoover would veto the legislation.

John R. Wilson, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce, said he did not believe the independence legislation would be completed at the present session of Congress.

The Manila Daily Bulletin, chief American paper and an opponent of immediate Philippine independence, declared that "the vote was primarily one for American independence, American freedom from competition with duty free Philippine products and Filipino labor. It was a depression vote cast by an added House on the eve of a general election when the whole country is harassed to desperation."

Set Fire to Prison Chapel
Joliet, Ill., April 5 (AP)—An old and trusted convict "fired of being shut up" and reverting to a pyromaniac urge today set fire to stone chapel in the state penitentiary.

Campaign Begun on N. Y. C. Speakeasies

New York, April 5 (AP)—Sixty federal prohibition agents, acting under Director Amos W. Woodcock and Assistant Administrator Martin O. Hanson, today began compilation of a "prohibition directory" in Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Each agent was provided with a sectional map covering from ten to twenty blocks and instructed to comb the section to make an itemized report on each speakeasy, liquor-serving restaurant, cordial shop and night club.

The work today was confined to lower Manhattan, below 23rd street. The agents were told to certify on the basis of their own knowledge or "sound information" the location of each resort, whether it is a peep-hole or open-door establishment, a large or small business, and details of its patronage.

The men also were instructed to make no raids, arrests or seizures for the present.

Woodcock was in the city to personally direct the work. After Washington is in possession of enough evidence to close New York's speakeasies, the agents were told, they will be closed whether they number 10,000 or 20,000, and each investigator was given to understand that he will be held accountable if a later checkup shows that he failed to report all details of the section to which he was assigned.

Lower Manhattan was expected to be covered within a short time, after which the agents planned to invade the northern section of the island, then the Bronx and Brooklyn and possibly Queens and Richmond.

GOLDSTEIN GIVES HIS STEPMOTHER A WILD RIDE

White Plains, N. Y., April 5 (AP)—A 19-year-old White Plains youth who led police on a wild ride for two hours through this city and Scarsdale, while his stepmother crouched on the running board of the car, screaming for help, today was being charged by police to answer numerous charges, and to pay for a series of damages he caused in his escapade.

The boy is Sidney Goldstein. Late yesterday he took the automobile belonging to his father, Charles Goldstein, over the protests of Mrs. Anna Goldstein, his stepmother, she jumped on the running board of the car to stop the boy, but he sped down streets in this city, swerving from one side to the other in his efforts to dislodge the woman from the running board.

Her shrieks for aid, as she clung to the car, brought two motorcycle policemen in pursuit. They were unable to catch up to the speeding car, which left the White Plains limits and drove into Scarsdale. Scarsdale police, notified by telephone, took up the chase, but couldn't catch the boy.

Realizing that his stepmother had been hurt when the car careened against a tree, the boy drove to White Plains Hospital. He jumped out, took his stepmother off the running board, and left her in front of the hospital. He drove away just before police arrived.

Police said today they believed the boy had gone to New York city.

Mrs. Goldstein was treated at the hospital for bruises, cuts and shock.

FUNERAL OF MRS. FOSDICK WILL NOT BE PUBLIC

Montclair, N. J., April 5 (AP)—Because "of the publicity given this tragedy," plans for the funeral of Mrs. Raymond B. Fosdick, who killed herself after saving her two children, will not be made public, Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, brother of

Mr. Fosdick, announced today. Dr. Fosdick previously had said the news left by his sister-in-law indicated she was of unbalanced mind. The Montclair police added that one of the rambling messages indicated she had at first planned to kill her husband, also.

Dr. Chandler Home. Dr. George F. Chandler of East Chestnut street is home from a vacation in Mexico and South America and has resumed practice.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE

Both Ulster county and the City of Kingston found it necessary to issue certificates of indebtedness in anticipation of taxes to be collected this year, a not uncommon thing in governmental financing. Both borrowed funds from local banks—but there the similarity ends. Ulster county paid its notes, the city has so far refused to do so, on the ground that the transaction is illegal, preferring instead to involve the city in a costly lawsuit. The city has the money to pay this debt, the present administration having levied the tax and collected it from the taxpayers of the city and with the money in its possession refused to pay an honest debt.

Before the county paid its obligations County Treasurer Rice, Mayor Carey and others, journeyed to Albany to see the Attorney General about the legality of payment. It is understood that the Attorney General asked if there was a local county attorney, and finding that there was was wanted to know what his opinion was concerning the matter. On finding that the county attorney advised payment, the attorney general said that the advice of the county attorney should be followed, and as a result the county paid the tax.

The city, on the other hand, consulted clerks from the state comptroller's office, who are investigating city and county finances, and these gentlemen advised withholding payment until a court decided the matter. There is a small portion of the money borrowed which was obtained in anticipation of taxes for next year, and at present there may be a question as to the legality of this. However, the large part of the money was borrowed under the same conditions that faced the county, which debt was ordered paid. Why this large amount of funds is tied up and awaiting a court decision is known only to Mayor Carey and his advisers. At any rate the county paid its obligations and the city hasn't. The county has maintained its credit and the city's credit is being impaired day by day.

TIME TO ECONOMIZE NOW

The National Industrial Conference Board, performing a service in which the public at last begins to show interest—the cost of government—submits some impressive figures. Combined governmental expenditures in this country, federal, state and local, for the fiscal year ending in 1929, amounted to the tremendous total of $13,438,900,000. This was an increase of 3.5 per cent over the previous year. It meant a per capita cost of $107.37, an average cost per family of about $590. How many people know we pay $500 a year per family for government?

This cost has been creeping upon the nation like a deadly disease. In the 16 years from 1913 to 1929 the cost of being governed increased 347 per cent. In the same period the national income increased only 148 per cent and the population only 25.9 per cent. Thus government expenditures grew more than twice as fast as the nation's income and more than 13 times as fast as the population. It was not all "the war," either. Almost every public taxing and spending agency in the country has had a hand in it. And most of the public, through this reckless period, not only tolerated but often applauded the extravagance.

At last the public, poverty-stricken by depression, is waking up and demanding economy. The public tax-spending agencies, on the whole, are not yet awake. The nation's eyes just now are focused on the Congress at Washington, and the most striking thing about that supposedly representative body is that about 99 per cent of its frenzied activity to meet the present crisis has been directed to raising more money instead of spending less.

Budgets must be balanced. Just as much balancing can be done by decreasing outgo as by increasing income. About 40,000,000 voters would pay any really necessary new taxes far more cheerfully if they knew that for every such sacrifice they make, the government itself is making one. Is there any good reason why $500,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 cannot be lopped off the government budget for the next fiscal year? Law-makers talk economy, but defer it. Why wait for the future? Forty million voters are economizing right now.

Bargains in food are one of the redeeming features of this distressful period. Bargains in eggs, however, are not necessarily what they're cracked up to be. A bargain-hunter in Toledo, O., lured by the Easter offer of a restaurant keeper to give patrons all the hard-boiled eggs they could eat for 25 cents, manfully made away with 55 eggs, then collapsed. It may have been worth the misery, at that. The eater said that for the first time in his life he had had enough eggs. But what a way to celebrate a festival like Easter! And why waste food, even if it is plentiful in some places? Eggs, like grain, should be paraded around.

FOODS AND VITAMINS.

Nothing that has happened in relation to food in recent years has excited the minds of everybody as has the discovery of vitamins. In newspapers and magazines, in the windows of food shops, almost everywhere in fact, we are hearing and seeing about vitamins. The very name vitamins, vita meaning life, stimulates the imagination.

What are vitamins? All we know now is that they are absolutely necessary to life. They are much like the juices of the ductless glands in that they seem to regulate some of the processes of the body especially those that have to do with growth and health.

Some scientists liken them to the spark plugs in an automobile engine which seem to energize or give life to the gas or explosion of gas, thus producing power. Others speak of them as a sort of binder or connecting link which combines or links up with other foods and is so vital in itself that it makes each of these other foods exert much more energy than when eaten by itself. For instance the ordinary cereal—wheat, corn, or oats—gives up more protein, that is body building food, if milk with its vitamins is added to it, than if it were eaten alone.

As you know the vitamins are given names by using the letters of the alphabet A, B, C, D, E, G. Vitamins A, D, and E are soluble in fats and are found in fat foods and green plants, cod liver oil. Vitamins B, C, and G are soluble in water and are found in yeast, green vegetables, fruits, eggs, and milk.

Just as everything new is apt to be emphasized or made to look most important so also with vitamins, with the result that many people are naturally wondering if they are getting enough of all the vitamins, and are perhaps beginning to buy various foods because they contain certain vitamins.

Now it just so happens that very small amounts of a food containing vitamins will be of as much benefit to the system as large amounts, so that it isn't necessary to worry about the amount of any vitamin in your food.

It also just so happens that the everyday foods you eat, meat, potatoes, butter, cream, milk, tomatoes, whole grains, eggs, fruits, nuts, cabbage, spinach, lettuce, onions, oranges, lemons, grapefruit, bananas, apples, and other foods, contain all the vitamins. The only suggestion our nutrition experts make is to be sure to eat a little raw fruit or vegetable daily, in addition to the foods usually eaten.

Chapter 39

GAR'S ROADSTER WAITS

I WENT over our bills yesterday, Gar," Kitty said. "We'll have to scrimp for the next two months to pay for them." She laughed, to make the scrimping seem nothing. "Billie! Oh, I guess we don't have to worry about those."

"Christmas always costs a lot of money but it's worth it, isn't it? We can catch up easily; neither of us will need any clothes for ages. And I don't really need flowers, darling, though I love them when you send them. And I can cut down quite a bit on the house expenses." She kept to her light tone.

Gar pinched her cheek. "What you can't seem to grasp, Kit, is that you're married to a rich man's son. I could run an account in every store in this city and they'd stand for it; they know I'm coming into a lot of money some day."

Kitty had turned away to pour fresh coffee. Gar could not see the quick color that flamed to her face, the way she bit her lips together. She'd been dangerously near to a retort that would have made Gar angry. When she answered it was in a steady voice, soberly.

"I don't want it that way, Gar. I want us to get ahead on our own. And we will."

"Sure we will. And you're not to stew about money. Where are those bills? Give them to me. I'll take care of them."

"But how, Gar?"

"Oh, I've got a deal on. If he keeps his eyes open a man in business can turn over a thousand any time he wants to."

She gave him the little packet of bills and he put them in his pocket. "After this, I'll take care of these matters at the office. I'm not going to have you fussing about them. His manner was all tender.

He kissed her, put on his coat, kissed her again.

Kitty began her day's program with a light heart. Oh, what a goose she'd been to worry, to feel afraid of talking to Gar about their finances. And what a man of the world Gar was getting to be!

The morning's mail brought her a long letter from Sally Withers.

"Kitty, I'm telling you before anyone else, except my family, of course. Phil and I are engaged."

"He's been working in his father's bank but last month he got a position over at the power plant at Corinth and he's getting fifty dollars a week and I'm going to take Miss Brant's place at the library and I'll get twenty, so with that we can manage beautifully. We're going to live with his father and mother for awhile. They're fixing an apartment on the third floor."

"Can you come down for the wedding? Phil says he'd like Gar to stand up with him and of course I want you. It's going to be very simple, just here at the house, and we plan now that it will be in March or April. I'll write to you the moment we're decided."

Kitty glowed and laughed over the letter. Practical Sally, putting her happiness in such a matter-of-fact way.

Of course she and Gar would go to the wedding.

She called Gar on the telephone to give him the news. But Gar was not in his office. Old Jonathan told her that Gar would not be in until four o'clock.

Probably, Kitty exulted, he was out somewhere, "turning" his cool thousand! She compared it complacently with Phil Corey's plodding.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Chicago—Nix on the hero stuff. Policeman Joseph Sychowski wants a new pair of pants. He captured a runaway balloon after dashing 12 blocks clinging to a dangling rope. Once or twice during the chase, he sat down, and that was hard on the trousers.

Karachi, India—Shoes two bits a pair! American factories, disposing of surplus stocks ten years old, have provided tons of footwear for ladies here. Most of them have high tops.

Sherridon, Manitoba—Lizzie, a mule, is wise. She refuses to walk in snow without snowshoes. Her master, a trapper, taught her how to use them.

Zakopan, Poland—The sports mode is raining concessions from the clergy. Some churches at winter resorts now admit women wearing ski-trousers. Others expel them, though.

Berlin—Germany's "wonder baby" is causing a sensation. She is a girl 12½ inches long and weighing less than one and a fifth pounds at birth. She is kept in an incubator arrangement something like a baby chick.

Verona, Italy—Shopping for a meal like this could be no trouble at all. A six course dinner, everything made of rice, was served at a rice growers convention. It included rice ice cream.

Burlington, Vt.—Eight boys from Colchester are going to be sweet to President Hoover. Maple sugar experts all, they will present the President a supply of maple products.

Chicago—Unless the thieves who looted David Lipschutz' automobile can find 350 one-legged men, they will be out of luck and they must have lost their left legs.

Each of the 350 shoes they stole is for the right foot only. Lipschutz is a shoe salesman.

At the April meeting held at the home of Mrs. Herman Gunter final plans for the cafeteria supper were made. The date was set for Wednesday, May 4. Mrs. Charles Terwilliger was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of the menu and Mrs. John Sterley, chairman of the committee in charge of decorations and tables in the dining room.

BENJ. W. JOHNSTON'S.

BRODHEAD

Brookhead, April 4—The High Point Poultry Farm is preparing for a busy spring season. There is no doubt about it, the proprietors, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Luddy know their chickens. Several cases of eggs are being shipped each week to the metropolitan market. The eggs are delivered to the express office at Ashokan by the well-known Brookhead truckman and garageman, Henry Bell, of Brookhead Heights.

Van Rensselaer Crispell and son, Kermit, together with the elder son, Raymond, of Kingston, motored over to Massachusetts for an Easter trip.

Frank Jordan and John Ellsworth are kept pretty busy with the farm chores these days. Soon the well-tilled Jordan farm will be humming with its renewed spring activity.

Ernest Palen of Brookhead took in the recent auction at the Montecena Gray farm at Palentown Heights. Mr. Palen returned with a sap pan and reliable reports and evidence of bad roads in that section. When it comes to highways, old Olive stands in a class by itself.

Roy Palen is occupying his time by painting up the screens in readiness for the summer season, and between getting ready his fishing tackle for heavy duty. Sam Cassalima is his ready assistant.

Mr. and Mrs. William Windrum of Kingston are frequent visitors at her old homestead at Brookhead.

Mr. Levy, proprietor of High Point Camp, came up recently from the big city, but after looking over the heavy snow, deemed it best to postpone spring activity and returned to his winter retreat.

The Brookhead post office interior presents a spick and span appearance. Mr. Eckert, the proprietor, has been occupied during spare time late repainting and finishing off a new apartment. It is reported that an ice cream parlor and soft drink fountain may be installed to supply a growing summer demand, largely from the adjacent High Point Camp.

John and James Eckert of Brookhead ably assisted on occasion by William Windrum of Kingston, are getting out a quantity of saw timber from the swamp woodlot. A building boom appears to be developing in our adjacent Brookhead community.

The opening of the snow-bound roads pretty well occupied the combined efforts of the male Brookhead inhabitants with all available teams for several days following the blizzard. This service was augmented by the town caterpillar snow plow which was brought into action under the direction of Superintendent of Highways William Jordan, as field marshal. The heaviest drifts were encountered between the Allen farm and the Brookhead school house, a section of the highway formerly flanked by stone walls and long famed for its impassable snow drifts, with the appearance of the first signs of a blizzard. The school was forced to remain closed until the roads had been opened.

With all the rain and thawing the old Brookhead High Point road, from the Watson Hollow Inn to Will Burgher's corner at West Shokan Heights remained snow bound. A motorist in attempting to negotiate this inviting stretch of highway on Sunday morning, became marooned in a drift, until finally after much laborious effort with a shovel procured from the kindly Mr. Burgher, was enabled to proceed on to his intended destination at Harold Constable's place of residence.

Virgil Gordon attended the Methodist layman's conference held last week at the Park Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York city.

Samuel J. Cassalima with his friend, Irving Hesley, of West Shokan Heights, made an Easter pilgrimage to Peekamoose on horseback. The boys encountered snow drifts aplenty through the mountain pass and saw signs of the wild life made manifest by the tracks of snowshoe rabbits, deer herds, bear, panthers, wild cats, raccoons, skunks, mink, muskrats, otters, beavers, and similar denizens that are said to hold forth unmolested in that wild and picturesque regions so close to the bosom of mother nature. The experience of the day no doubt caused the boys to feel a bit alone in the world. However, they made the trip unmolested.

Farmer Wilson Hamilton of the heights section hies it over to the postoffice regularly on Tuesday and Friday for the all-informative Semi-Weekly Freeman.

Albert Nichols and his uncle, "Jke" Winchell, delivered a large load of firewood to West Shokan on Saturday with the sturdy bay mare.

Raymond Miller, well-known carpenter and interior decorator, is employed by William Colange, the West Shokan merchant.

Jimmy and Robert Gordon took turns last week milking the family cow and doing their father's chores.

Jewelers Met to Form Association

At a meeting of the retail jewelers of Kingston, held Monday evening at the Governor Clinton Hotel, an association of the jewelers was formed for the purpose of getting together at least once every three months to discuss problems and to enjoy a social evening.

The meeting Monday evening followed a dinner served at the hotel. Representatives from the retail jewelry stores were present and listened to an address by L. M. Campbell, president of the New York State Retail Jewelers' Association. Mr. Campbell spoke of the result of the 1930 census and discussed the findings of the U. S. Department of Commerce in relation to the jewelry business.

Following the talk the matter of forming a social organization for the purpose of getting the jewelers together from time to time was discussed and it was decided to form the Kingston Jewelers' Association. This association will meet at least once every three months and take over matters and enjoy a social evening. Selig Oppenheimer was unanimously elected president of the association.

while he was attending the church conference.

Mrs. Egbert Van Kleeck was a busy Kingston shopper on Tuesday. Joe Bushee and Lewis Stickle attended Sunday school at West Shokan on Sunday afternoon.

It is reported that Mr. Gordon has purchased a new truck.

Local postmistress, Mrs. Esther Eckert, is recovering from an attack of the grip.

George Burgher is again employed by Contractor Albert North at West Shokan.

Ernest and Ray Palen, accompanied by Samuel Cassalima tried out the reservoir trout fishing near Traver Hollow on Saturday. Mr. Cassalima reports that although a hundred or more fishermen lined the banks, nary a one got a nibble.

Due to the bad roads the milk truck ran way behind schedule for several days last week.

The school children were keenly disappointed that the snow-bound roads prevented the teacher, Mrs. Grover Winchell, from getting through to hold school.

Harlow McLean is getting his poultry plant pretty well righted up again after the damage done by the heavy wind a while back.

Miss Elizabeth Shukis spent Easter with her grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Allen.

Ernie Davis is said to be pretty busy canvassing his territory for the sale of General Electric refrigerating equipment.

James Winchell has been leading boys several days for James Tweedy to the Paris and Hensley sawmill. William Jordan called on William Burgher at West Shokan Heights.

Few Know Flying Squirrel
Flying squirrels are fairly common in the woods of North America, but they are rarely seen by man because they are very small and exceedingly shy and do not often venture out in the daytime.

Many Malignant Mosquitoes
Until recently it was believed that one kind of mosquito was responsible for transmitting yellow fever. Now it appears that 15 species can convey the disease, and therefore eradicating yellow fever will be a formidable task.

TO HAVE MISSION IN SIGNS FOR THE CATHOLIC DEAF

Out of the 25,000 Catholic deaf in the United States, those who dwell in this vicinity are to have the first mission ever given in the sign language in this section. The mission will be at St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church in Poughkeepsie.

Father Purcell will conduct the mission. The Catholic deaf of Baltimore cherish the memory of his untiring efforts for them. Before he was changed to New York city to become pastor he was in charge of the Maryland deaf. This mission is the realization of one of his fondest hopes. But to be wherever there are deaf of the Catholic religion is not an easy matter when there are so few priests in the work.

Father Purcell has prepared over 200 future priests in the sign language and these in a short time will be scattered in different parishes ready to carry on the work this veteran mission worker has so zealously propagated.

April 11 to 17 will be the days given over to the mission and it is the earnest hope of all interested in the deaf that they will be made acquainted with the coming mission and use this opportunity to learn again in their own language the lessons of their faith and the guiding principles of their life.

Compliment
There are few of us who can get along without incurring pecuniary obligations, but an unusual case is that of a motorist friend of ours who is still paying installments on the car exchanged for the car he sold in part payment for the car he now has.—Benton Transcript.

Unusually Entertained
Nothing makes us sadder than having a radio concert on top of that the orchestra whose playing we have greatly enjoyed for the past ten or fifteen minutes is one we particularly dislike.

Garner-Roosevelt Vote in Nebraska To Gauge Midwest Political Winds

Lincoln, Neb., (P).—From the heart of the corn belt soon will come the first electoral answer to this question:

How does the political wind blow in the midwest as between Speaker John N. Garner and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt?

In Nebraska's primary April 12 the Texas Democrat not only will be pitted for the first time against the New York executive, but also against Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma.

The vote likewise will be the first test of Murray's presidential primary strength in any state close to his native Oklahoma. To boost his cause, "Alfalfa Bill" will make a speaking campaign in Nebraska before the primary.

For the Democratic national convention Nebraska voters will choose between two slates of delegates. Those selected are bound "morally" by the presidential preference primary, but in past years Nebraska delegates not always have abided by primary results.

On the Republican presidential preference primary ballot is only one name—Joseph I. France of Maryland. The Republican state executive committee, however, recently endorsed President Hoover for reelection.

A LIGHT, STRONG, DURABLE PULLEY

The face of the Dodge Steel pulley is built to fit the belt. There are no grooves in the middle where belt strain is the heaviest, just an even steady pull. This maximum belt contact makes possible the practice of running belts loose, which lengthens belt life and reduces strain on the journal bearings.

The Dodge pulley combines great strength with light weight, eliminating all excess weight from the shaft with saving of fuel at the power plant.

ELLENVILLE BUTCHER SHOP CHANGES HANDS

Ellenville, April 5.—Benjamin Shulman, Ellenville butcher for the past 23 years, sold his business to Frank Wilhelm on Wednesday. Mr. Wilhelm took possession today. His health was given by Mr. Shulman as his reason for retiring from business. He and his family plan to remain residents of Ellenville. Their home is located at 47 North Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. Shulman came to Ellenville in 1909 and opened their first butcher shop on Market street in the store where the Aronofsky butcher shop is located at present. At that time the store was remodeled from a barn. A few years later they moved their shop to the Aronofsky building on Center street, and still later they purchased their own building on Center street, where they were located for several years.

About eight years ago they purchased the North Main street building, where their store is now located.

"Mam' zelle Taps" Delightful Story

"Mam' zelle Taps", the light opera to be given on April 11 by the Chubert Choral Club of the Y. W. C. A., is a charming American-French operetta in a prologue and two acts. There will be 23 in the cast, 29 members of the club and 12 men who have kindly consented to take the male parts. The scene is laid in France, the prologue on the garden and terrace of the chateau Piquet, in the summer of 1915, before America's entry into the great war. Act one takes place two years later in the same setting, and Act two outside a convalescent hospital near Paris two weeks later.

The plot concerns Marie, the daughter of Colonel Piquet, who is too old to fight for his country. Marie determines to get into the French army by hook or crook, to uphold the family honor, and at the same time to find out the truth about a French officer, Captain Gringo, whom she believes to be a spy. Her adventures as the Silver Bugler, bringing to justice the traitor Captain Gringo, makes a delightfully romantic story and the musical numbers, solos and choruses, are charming. Mrs. Jessie Cowley Wolfersteig will sing the part of Marie, Leonard Stine, Colonel Piquet; Paul Haas, Captain Gringo, and Robert Hawkey, Private Alonzo Mills of the A. E. F., who finally succeeds in winning the heart and hand of Marie. Alonzo, with Jean and Frederick, English and French soldiers, form a delightful trio, all in love with Marie—all contributing the comedy element. There are also an old school tragedian and feather brained duchess who bring many a laugh to the audience. The dialogue is extremely clever and piquant and has many amusing touches. Altogether the performance promises to be most enjoyable.

Stars "Close" to Earth

The nearest known star is proxima in the southern constellation Centauri. It is a faint star of tenth magnitude. The star Alpha Centauri, in the same constellation, is almost as near and is of the first magnitude. Both of them are about 43 light years from the earth.

GEORGE WASHINGTON'S TRAVELS

By James W. Brooks

THE roads we travel and the friends we meet, how they are joined as time ticks off the measure of the passing years! Among friends, there was Lord Fairfax, Royalist to the end, watching with deep concern the tide of events, yet with his high esteem for the youth he had counseled at Belvoir and Greenway Court lessened not a whit. Sobering days were at hand as faint sounds of conflict reached the sylvan shores of the Potomac River.

THERE were other folks moving about in their respective affairs as good neighbors do. In Alexandria there was Dr. Craik, to whom Fate had not yet imparted the fact that he had been drawn from Dumfries, Scotland, to become in time the Surgeon-General of the Continental forces in the American Revolution under his neighbor, George Washington.

THE masterly sentences of the Virginia Bill of Rights were fashioned by another neighbor, George Mason. George Wythe, first professor of law in America, applied his powers to the legal training of minds for the new citizenship: Hugh Mercer, druggist, was to become a great general, and Fielding Lewis an ammunition maker, all close friends of Washington.

MODENA

Modena, April 4.—The regular monthly meeting of the Plattekill Rod and Gun Club will be held Tuesday evening, April 5, at Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. It has been proposed to adopt new resolutions regarding the new bill which has been before the legislature and passed, to extend the season of hunting pheasants to thirty days.

At a recent meeting of the Plattekill town board, which was held in the town clerk's office in Modena, the building of a new road from the Unionville road to the Huckleberry Turnpike was under discussion. The wage scale for town employees was also discussed and it was decided that the same rate of pay would be maintained as last year. Inspectors of election were appointed during the course of the meeting, as follows: District No. 1, Modena section, Archie Mackey, Michael Lucy, Floyd Wells, Ernest Rappleyea. District No. 2, Plattekill section, William Mack, William Nabor, James Dayton, Leander Minard. District No. 3, Clintonville section, Wendel Mount, Angelo Albano, John Bruns, John Thorne.

Waistlines Continue to Be News

New York—Gray and brown together—there's the unusual for you. It is smart, though, and very French. Later on, one will see the combination worked out in linen, a material in which it is particularly fetching. There will be creases of one color with sleeves of another. Some of these sleeves will be attached to a guimpe instead of to the dress—a practical idea, you must admit. Schiaparelli buttons on some of her sleeves, the buttons and buttonholes following the line of the armhole. It's a risky idea—very young, too.

There is no longer any surprise element in the separate jacket, except when it is in an unusual color or design, as for instance the brown jacket with the gray dress, or a printed jacket with a plain dress. When prints are used for jackets they are inclined to be small in design, but the printed coat may be much more spectacular.

Although there is so much talk about high waistlines and built-up skirts, which achieve more or less the same thing, one must not forget that there is no insistence on this line except in effect. There are ways of applying trimming, or of adjusting the belt, which really do the trick. One may, however, show an indifference to such trying matters by reverting to the far more flattering princess line. The descendants of the true princess bear a resemblance to the original but show a modern influence. The hour-glass idea is missing and in its place in the natural figure, well defined. There is, however, a feeling for less frankness in revealing the hips, fullness having been up sufficiently to indicate a passing of that slim-to-the-knee silhouette.

The woman who likes her spring tailcoat light-colored may have it that way. The woman who likes the notched collar, and all the rest of the masculine details that go into the making of a sack or double-breasted suit, may also have her way. Suits may be of men's wear outlines or of silks that are distinctly feminine.

(Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild)

Gray and brown flat crepe are combined in this ensemble from Marjorie et Armand. Touches of the brown appear on the gray jacket, and the rows of buttons are gray with brown rims. The effect of a short waist is intensified by the mounting of the brown on the gray bodice of the frock.

Organdie Adds Piquancy to the Mode

New York—Since the Paris spring openings, more and more has been heard about silk organdie, a fabric which had received only limited attention for the Southern resort season. Silk organdie is now enjoying considerable demand for summer evening frocks as well as for spring blouses and lingerie details.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Polka-dotted fabrics are important both in daytime and evening fashions.

Vionnet's dressy coat, in which a black satin top is combined with a body of suede wool, has made wide appeal.

A Youthful and Distinctive Style
7430. Fitted lines, a comfortable sleeve, and a pleasing neckline, are outstanding features of this lovely frock. The skirt is cut with modified flare. It is joined to narrow shaped hip yoke sections. Taffeta or faille would be suitable for this style. It is also suggested for mesh woolsens, and for linen.

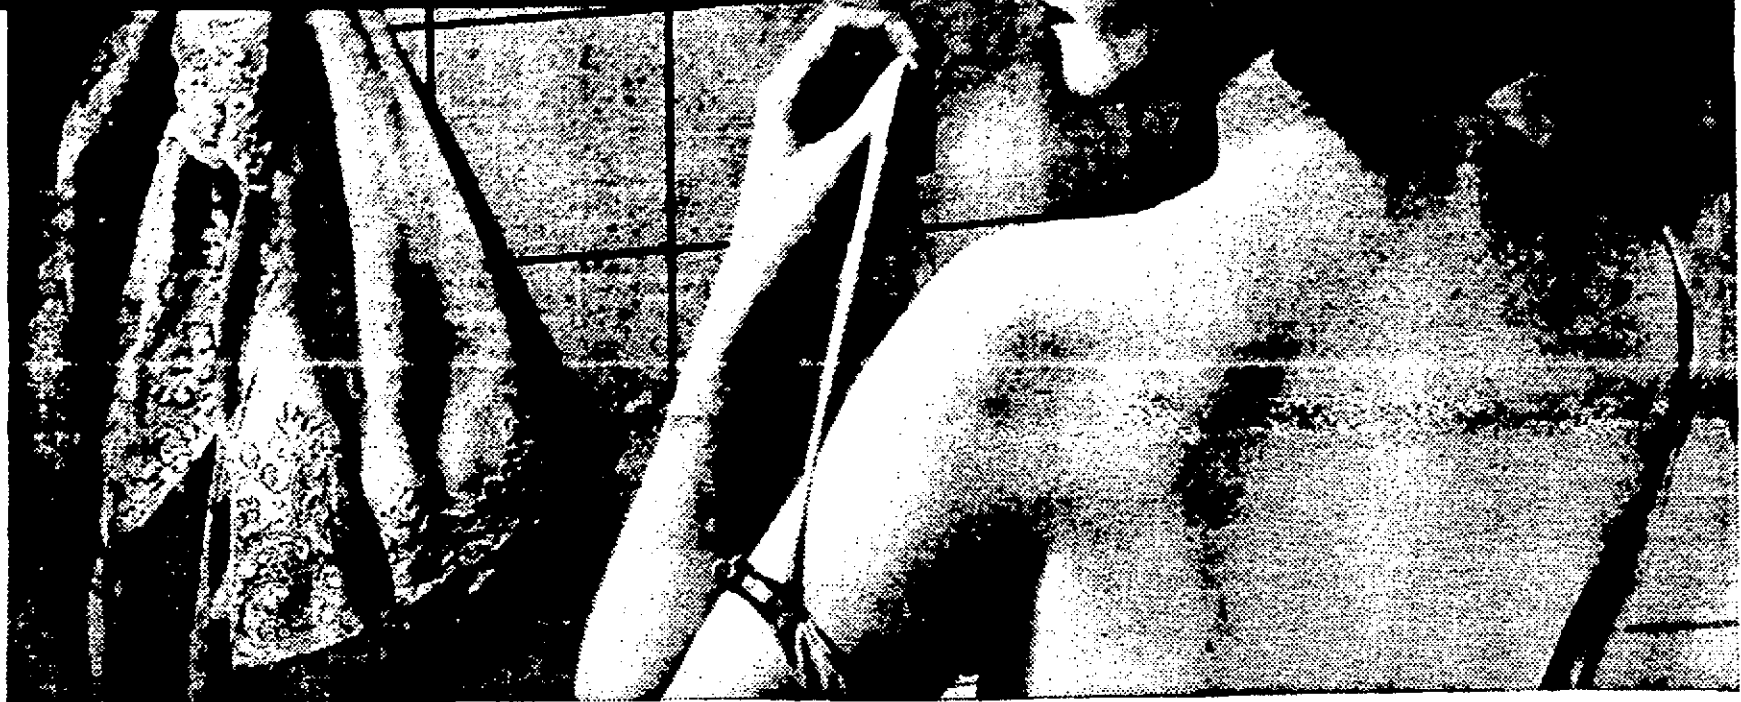

Designed in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 38 will require 4 1/2 yards of 35 inch material. The belt, cuffs and neck inserts require 1-3 yard. The width of the dress at the lower edge with fullness extended is 2 1/2 yards.

IN QUAKER TONES

She never omits her DAILY BATH—

—Yet she wears underthings a second day

FRESH AS A ROSE, she steps from her tub and then—too often she puts on lingerie stale with yesterday's perspiration!

And, of course, she perspires again today. Everyone does, at least a little. All too soon other people get that penetrating hint.

Don't risk offending in this way! Lux takes away acids and odors completely—yet so gently that it cannot harm the finest fabric or the daintiest color. Lux underthings and stockings after every wearing. This dainty habit takes only 4 minutes or less!

Wash this 4-minute way!

One tablespoon of Lux does one day's underthings—stockings, too. Squeeze lukewarm suds through fabric, rinse twice, shake out.

Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades colors. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

Tips on CONTRACTIONS

Unwarranted Forcing Takeouts

By TOM O'NEIL

Forcing takeouts, that is bids higher than necessary to overall partner, usually require three honor tricks or more.

Such a takeout asks that partner keep on bidding at least until a game contract is reached. A forcing takeout on mere length alone, without quick tricks, invites severe penalties.

The principle may be illustrated by a hand which, as played by Lieut. Alfred M. Gruenther, well known tournament referee, resulted in a slam through the help of the defense, good distribution and other factors. The lieutenant was a pinch hitter for a competitor who was temporarily absent from the table.

The hands:

WEST		EAST
♠ 7 2	♥ 10 5 4 3	♠ 10 8 5 3	♥ K 9 8
♦ A Q 5 4 3	♣ K Q 9	♦ J 2	♣ J 9 8 7
♠ A K J 7 2	♥ A 7 6	♠ A K 4 2	♥ A 7 6

The bidding went: South one spade, west pass, north three hearts, east pass, south three spades, west pass, north four spades, east pass, south six spades.

After the forcing takeout Gruenther rebid his spades to show strength and when north indicated satisfaction with spades as the make, the lieutenant very properly jumped to a little slam. He had almost an original two-demand bid in his own hand and counted on at least three honor tricks in the north hand.

As a matter of fact under the honor-trick system of valuation north had only 1 1/2 honor tricks, warranting only an overcall of two hearts.

The lieutenant said nothing and went sternly about his duty. West, obliging, led a trump. South won, led the ace of hearts, then led to the queen of spades. East was kind enough to cover the queen of hearts when it was led from dummy. All the trumps were drawn. Luckily the ace of diamonds was in the west hand so that the king afforded a remedy to dummy.

Losing clubs and diamonds in the south hand were discarded on hearts, the defense making only the ace of diamonds.

The absentee returned ere the hand was finished and watched. "You played that in a very dangerous manner," she told the lieutenant. He resumed refereeing without comment.

First Woman Gaffer?

Frank Meke's All Sports Record Book says that the first woman gaffer of whom there is mention was Mary, granddaughter of James IV, who became queen of Scotland. She played almost as well as men, was an enthusiast, and brought censure upon herself by playing "golfe" a few days after the death of her husband.

Audiences Marvel At Belsky's Feats

Joe Belsky, Russian strong man, caused many to marvel at the feats of strength he performed Monday at the Broadway Theatre where he is being starred on the bill of Paramount vaudeville. Belsky, the 170-pound Hercules wrapped a bar of inch and a half iron around his arm, drove a 29-penny nail through a two inch board with his hand, bent a number of spikes and stretched a heavy piece of inner tube said to be equal to the strength of some 30 exercising cables.

Questioned about his diet, the 38-year-old Siberian said he had no special or favorite menu. However, Henry Peschi, proprietor of the Sanitary Lunch, near the West Shore, where Belsky dines, said the strong man was partial to steak and onions and drank plenty of milk.

Assessor Finds 83 Buildings Over 30 Stories.

New York.—Old Father Knickerbocker has started his annual inventory on his great and growing skyscraper jungle for the benefit of the tax gathering man, as usual—and the result is providing its usual quota of new wonders to the proud populace. The array, of course, is "bigger and better than ever" this year—it always is. The current roll call shows a total of nearly 500 buildings of 20 stories or more in height and with an assessed valuation running well into the billions. Ninety-three of them tower a full 30 stories or more into cloudland and their combined value is on the books for nearly $500,000,000. They will pay at least $21,000,000 into the city treasury this year and nobody knows yet just how much the other 40 or so may add to the amount. Certainly the figure will be a bit staggering, even to a city accustomed to think in terms of millions when the matter of taxes and public expenditures is under consideration.

Four of the 23 "tallest" and a cluster of the lesser fry have been added to the total since the tax man was around last year. Chief of these is, of course, the new Empire State building, which towers a dizzy 86 stories above the street level and becomes thereby not only the majordomo of New York skyscrapers but the last word in tall buildings the world over. Two years ago the Chrysler building, which reaches 77 stories into the empyrean blue, claimed first place on the list, while only three years back it was the 55-story Woolworth building, now—alas!—down to sixth place on the roster.

While not quite completed the new Cities Service building which towers 920 feet above Pine street down in the heart of the financial district is given third place on the taxman's 1932 roll while fourth place goes to the Manhattan company building hard by, rising 927 feet above the busy Wall Street thorough.

Each of the complete skyscrapers is, of course, virtually a city within the greater city. Each has its governing board, comparable to the city council or board of aldermen, with a superintendent or manager officiating as "mayor," a "police" force consisting of its many uniformed watchmen scattered on every floor, its rapid transit system, i. e. elevators, and its floor upon floor of teeming workers ennobled in offices separated by corridors so long and spacious they might well pass for city streets. Some of the working populations of these perpendicular cities run high into the thousands.

FAMILIES DRIVEN TO STREET IN NIGHT ATTIRE

Amsterdam, N. Y., April 5 (AP).—Eight families were driven to the street in night attire when fire swept through a tenement building with such fury early today that flames leaped as high as a nearby church steeple.

In spite of the furious outburst of flame, firemen were able to reach a girl, trapped on the third floor, and carried her down a ladder to safety. The property loss was placed at $40,000.

DEMANDS HOUSE STUDY RAILROADS' RELATIONS

Washington, April 5 (AP).—A demand for an investigation of the relationship between the Pennsylvania and Reading railroads and William S. Vane, Republican party leader in Philadelphia, was laid before the House today by Representative Golder (R., Penna.).

Golder charged the railroads paid large fees for franchises to prominent politicians and that contractors exacted large sums illegally from the railroads. The resolution would empower the Interstate Commerce Commission to institute the investigation.

On Saturday the Coterie met at the home of Mrs. Eastman. Mrs. Beeres had the informing paper of the day on "Hungarian Literature," which was followed by a reading from "Black Oxen," given by Mrs. Russell. The Coterie will take up the study of "Music in America Since the Colonial Period," for next season. The next regular meeting of the Coterie will be with Mrs. Gates.

Committed To Jail

William Allen, 38, colored, of East Kingston, was committed to the Ulster county jail Tuesday by Justice Walter Webber, to await a hearing at 7 p. m. today on a charge of petit larceny.

Bear Family Widespread Throughout the World

From Polar regions where the huge white bear is the ruler of snowy wastes, to the tropics where the little cinnamon bear haunts the jungle, or to the Antipodes where much smaller plantigrades are styled bears, every part of the world has, or appears to have had, some member of the bear family among its aboriginal inhabitants.

Despite the evidence of Scripture, sceptical critics for many years derided the idea of bears existing in Syria or the Holy land. Ignorance of ordinary historical facts was part of the equipment of these doubters. They knew nothing of, nor studied the accounts of the life history of the good knight Godfrey de Bouillon, who with his brothers Eustace and Baldwin led an army of forty thousand German soldiers to join the crusade to deliver Jerusalem from the Saracens towards the end of the Eleventh century, and who during the long siege of Antioch in Syria went alone to the defense of a poor woodcutter against a fiercely attacking bear, in which encounter he was badly mauled although he did come out of the conflict victoriously at the last. Certainly Godfrey de Bouillon would bear witness to the fact that there was nothing incongruous in the story David told of having killed a bear in protecting his father's sheep at Bethlehem (Samuel 17:34-38).

Women Refused Ballot by Quebec Legislature

Quebec.—Standing true to its traditions as the stronghold of Old world conservatism in the New world, the province of Quebec remains the only section of the British empire where women are still forbidden to vote.

By a vote of 52 to 23 the legislature has refused to extend the franchise taking the stand that "women should be queens of their homes and not political intriguers or hustling loafers."

The question was not decided along party lines, for two Liberal members sponsored the bill which would have given women the vote while other Liberals were equally strong in opposing it.

Dr. Anatole Plante, sponsor of the bill, argued that the present situation placed Quebec women in a position of inferiority to those of other Canadian provinces.

Seeks Height Record in "Thermos" Balloon

Vienna.—In a balloon with a gondola like a "thermos" flask Count Theodore Zichy, a young Hungarian nobleman, is to attempt to capture the world's height record.

Accompanied by Hans Braun, an Austrian inventor, he is going, in a few weeks' time, to assault the record made by Professor Piccard last May, when he went ten miles up in an aluminum ball. The count is going to try to get eleven miles high.

Impossible to Acquire Real Ability to Spell?

It was a ruthless spelling bee that the Catholic Actors' guild held. According to all reports, the spellers who remained in the lineup towards the finish had to submit to heckling by the members already downed, and the announcer was severe with all attempts to get a word repeated. In the old-fashioned spelling bees it used to be all right to ask teacher to repeat while the speller thought furiously in the minute gained.

The rule in this one was elimination of the person making an error. In school you went to the foot of the class and tried to work your way back to the top, but it was a hopeless game for a naturally poor speller. At the end of the session there was a gloomy little group down at the foot, always composed of the same sad individuals.

How the good spellers manage it is a mystery to those who cannot. They can tackle and conquer a word of which they probably never heard through some special faculty—probably just a sense of spell.—New York Times.

Sleep Center in Brain?

A sleep center in the brain is postulated by the Austrian neurologist, O. von Economo. In the American Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases.

While this center is not exactly located, he says, those diseases which show disturbance of the sleep function, such as the abnormally prolonged slumber of encephalitis, show lesions in the neighborhood of the third ventricle of the brain. Cats have been made to yawn and assume positions of rest when this region is stimulated with electricity.

Von Economo believes that the nerve cells of this region are particularly susceptible to some fatigue substance which circulates in the blood and that once stimulated they inhibit the action of the higher nervous centers. Thus it is able to act as a sentry for the rest of the brain.

Fabulous Birds of Old

Mostly portents of good luck are birds of fantasy and fable, bringing joy to those they favor. More ferocious is the griffin, with its bird head and lion body. This weird animal with its dual personality was reputed to punish greed by leaping on despoilers of the earth's riches and tearing the offenders to pieces. In Asia, the griffin prowled and hovered over deposits of gold and precious stones, guarding them from adventurous caravans trekking the wilds to fill capacious saddle-bags with riches.

Mrs. Keefe will be the hostess at the next meeting.

Former Milton Girl to Marry

Only Three Contests In State Primaries

ALBANY, N. Y., April 5 (P).—Section of New York's district delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions today was a perfunctory proceeding in all but three of the 42 congressional districts.

There was one contest in the Democratic primary and two in the Republican. In the 1st district, which is in Buffalo, a state of two delegates favorable to former Governor Smith is opposed to two men who are regarded as votes for Governor Roosevelt for the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Republicans have contests in the Seventh district of Kings county (Brooklyn) and in the 20th, where Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills is a candidate. Mr. Mills, although running in the 20th, is a resident in the 17th district. His name was transferred to that district because the state was complete in his home district.

The New York primaries do not end the successful candidates for election posts to support any aspirant for the presidential nomination. All of the Republicans, however, are favorable to President Hoover. There are both Smith and Roosevelt men in the Democratic ranks.

It is considered highly probable that the Democratic delegation will split its vote on the first ballot. Reason for this belief is found in the alliance of Tammany Hall with its block of votes and affiliated votes. There is expected to be sentiment for both Smith and Roosevelt in the ranks of the Tiger.

The 94 votes that New York will cast at the Chicago convention will be circumscribed by the unit rule as Empire State Democrats have not applied it for more than a decade. In 1920 Roosevelt carried his opposition to a unit rule to the honor of the San Francisco convention and the general body of delegates decided he was right in his contention that each district delegate should be free to express the sentiment of his constituency.

The Republicans will have 97 votes in the convention, the larger number being due to the plurality Hoover had over Smith four years ago. Eleven Republican votes will be cast by eleven delegates at large, named at a committee meeting a month ago. They are W. Kingsland Macy, state chairman; Senate Leader George F. Peck of Syracuse; Speaker of the State Assembly Joseph A. McGinnis of Ripley; Charles D. Miles, national committeeman; Congressman Ruth Pratt of New York city; Daniel J. Keough of Buffalo; Congressman James W. Parker, William H. Hill of Binghamton, Mrs. Rhoda Fox Graves, a member of the State Assembly, Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, daughter of Nicholas Murray Butler, and William Zeigler, Jr., New York manufacturer and treasurer of the State Committee.

The Democrats will not name their eight delegates at large until about April 15. There is a likelihood that both Roosevelt and Smith will be members of the delegation.

Wisconsin Voters Make Choice Today

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 5 (P).—Wisconsin voters today had the alternative of indicating preference for two outstanding presidential candidates or electing delegates whose final vote at the Republican and Democratic national conventions is problematical.

Rival factions in both parties conducted intensive campaigns which, with promises of good weather, were expected to bring out one of the largest votes in recent years.

Democrats had the opportunity to endorse the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York by voting for a state of delegate candidates pledged to support him.

Republicans were offered a conservative delegation who, although uncommitted, endorsed the administration of President Hoover at their state conference.

The LaFollette progressive ticket and a so-called Callahan Democratic slate, the latter sponsored by John M. Callahan, Wisconsin Democratic national committeeman, furnished an outlet for voters who favored neither Hoover nor Roosevelt.

Delegates on the LaFollette progressive ticket propose to vote for Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska for president. The Callahan group has not committed itself but is generally regarded as favoring Alfred E. Smith.

Charge Capone With "Fixing" Elections

CHICAGO, April 5 (P).—"Scarface Al" Capone is in jail, but the city that breathed with relief when Capone's 11-year sentence was pronounced once more finds itself facing political strife as bitter as it even was during the gang lord's heyday.

The figure of the overlord of crime, it is charged, has risen from within the walls of Cook county jail where he is confined to blight the hope of a peaceful primary election a week from today with terrorism and violence as of old.

Rumors that Capone was trying to strengthen his political influence to escape serving all, or most all, of his sentence for income tax evasion had been vaguely heard for some time, but now they have come out into the open.

A special grand jury investigation was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg, himself a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, to determine to what extent if any Capone and his hoodlums are employing terrorist tactics to force unfavorable candidates to withdraw and control the primary.

And from a prominent civic worker, President Fred W. Sargent of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad, came a statement that Capone "has a candidate for ward committeeman in the primary in every ward of Chicago."

"Capone," Sargent said, "has so gained control of law enforcement in Cook county that government is breaking down." Capone derives his power, he asserted, from revenues that 10,000 saloons and 1,000 gambling houses bring him.

GIRL SCOUTS

ULSTER COUNTY COUNCIL

PROF. A. B. BENNETT, Commissioner.
MISS MILDRED M. EATON, Director.

The Ulster County Girl Scout Leaders' Association met at Girl Scout headquarters on Saturday, at 2:30. The president, Miss Margaret Finn, presented a report of the work of the council during the past year.

The annual rally of the Ulster County Girl Scouts will be held at Camp Wendy on Saturday, June 4. The silk flag, presented by the late Miss Marion Borden, which goes to the troop having the highest rating in attendance and inspection at the rally, will be awarded at this time.

The Girl Scouts of the New Paltz Troop have been the proud possessors of the flag during the past year. The troop earning the flag for three years becomes the permanent owner. Thus far, no troop has held it for more than one year.

The committee in charge of the rally are Miss Eleanor Rose, Miss Zella Follette and Mrs. Whitcomb. The leaders' training, given by the director, Miss Eaton, was conducted in the form of a regular Girl Scout meeting.

It opened with a Court of Honor after which Second Class Signaling and Nature Work were stressed. There were new games and songs, and a closing goodnight circle. The members of the Leaders' Association are anticipating a weekend at Camp Wendy on May 21. The leaders will go down to Wallkill on Friday afternoon and will remain in camp until Sunday.

Troop IV, Kingston—Last Wednesday we enjoyed a long meeting. We opened our meeting by having patrol corners and regular routine was carried on. One of our objects in patrol corners is that every girl has a job to do, and the girl does not get the idea that she is being ruled too much by the patrol leader. We practiced the code, and each patrol sent a message to the other. Our captain, Mrs. Smith, sent several interesting messages with a whistle. We then formed a goodnight circle, and sang several camp songs. Mrs. Smith held a Court of Honor meeting with the girls and several things were discussed. Taps were then sung. The Girl Scout prayer repeated, and the meeting adjourned. Mildred Ludwig, scribe.

Since the above news report was sent in, Troop IV has had to part with its captain, Mrs. Allen Smith, who has returned to her former home in East Orange. The troop is indeed sorry to have her go, and the girls are also regretting the loss of Eva and Allen Smith. Her two daughters, who were members of the troop.

Modern Troop—It has been decided that the Girl Scouts of Modern will give a dance. The hall is hired and the orchestra engaged for April 29. Alberta Decker presented the Modern Troop with a green scrap book. Florence Gierlich, scribe.

Sangerites Troop: The Sangerites Troop of Girl Scouts met the Camp Fire Girls at the basketball court at the Sangerites High School last Tuesday evening. Although the Camp Fire Girls put up a good fight, they were defeated by the Girl Scouts, with a score of 15-3. Good sportsmanship was shown on each side, and the players on both teams enjoyed their first game of basketball. Miss Marie Jacobs is the coach for the Camp Fire Girls, and Miss Florence Matrice, Captain of the Girl Scout Troop coached the victorious team. The members of the Girl Scout team are as follows: Betty Brandon, Dorothy Fosmire, Olive Washburn, Isabelle Lang, Jane Hatch, Joan Barrow, M. Holden, and Eleanor Axtell.

Troop II: Troop II of Ellenville will have a benefit moving picture, "The Man Who Played God," featuring George Arliss, at the Shadowland Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, April 13 and 14. The proceeds are to go toward new uniforms for the girls who have joined the troop during the year.

Troop I, Ellenville: The Girl Scouts of Dogwood Troop have assisted with the toxin-antitoxin clinics held in the Ellenville High School during March. This is the fourth year that the Dogwood Troop has been privileged to do this bit of community service.

Troop III, Ellenville: Upon arriving at our meeting last Wednesday, we heard exciting news. We hurried through inspection and other minor things, and soon came to the order of "Patrol Corners". As soon as possible, the necessary work was attended to, and we were marshalled out of doors. Mrs. Battey took two patrols to her home in her car, while the other two went to Miss Rose's home. When our patrol arrived at Mrs. Battey's, we had a very interesting lesson in table-setting, table manners and the duties of a hostess. We had some delicious refreshments and we were left at our homes in time to prevent any parental anxiety. It just shows us some more of the usefulness of, in fact, necessary things that Girl Scouts learn. Lucille Benedict, scribe.

Matthew Sellers Dead at His Home

IRVINGTON, N. Y., April 5 (P).—Matthew Bacon Sellers, Jr., technical assistant to Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels in World War time, and an outstanding authority on aeronautics and one of the sponsors of the naval air service, died at his home in Ardsley Park today.

He was 63 years old. Death came from a heart attack when Mr. Sellers was convalescing from an attack of pneumonia three weeks ago. He is survived by his widow and two sons, Matthew Bacon Sellers, 3rd, and John C. Sellers; a sister, Miss Annabelle Sellers, and a brother, Samuel C. Sellers, both of Baltimore. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made.

Mr. Sellers, during the war, passed on all naval inventions before they were accepted and put in use. He was an authority on aero dynamics and was credited with inventing the lightest plane to fly with the smallest horsepower engine ever developed. He discovered the list and drift on arched surfaces by means of the wind tunnel.

Stimson Off To Arms Conference At Geneva

WASHINGTON, April 5 (P).—Declaring that economic burdens and the menace to world peace had increased in recent months, President Hoover today said Secretary Stimson was going to Geneva in the hope of facilitating positive achievements by the armament conference.

Addressing newspapermen at a conference, the President said the secretary of state was traveling abroad only in behalf of "some concrete and definite results" from the arms parley.

Stimson sails Friday. "There will be no discussion or negotiation by the secretary on the debt question," Hoover said.

FIGHT CONTINUES TO SAVE HUNTERS CREEK DAM

Gloversville, N. Y., April 5 (P).—The fight to save the Hunters Creek dam today stretched into the third day of day and night struggle by crews of men packing bags of gravel and crushed stone to bolster the weakening breast.

It was said last night that the job of repairing the broken sluiceway would be extremely difficult because of logs washed into it. A diver has not been able to clear the logs from the sluiceway, deep in the breast of the dam, and until the sluiceway is cleared, it will be impossible to drain the water and relieve the pressure on the dam.

A leak alongside the sluiceway pipe suddenly grew serious Sunday afternoon. The pressure of the water pushed the pipe out of place and broke it and dangerously weakened the dam. A 150-foot long concrete and earth affair about 60 feet through at the base. With the coming of the spring freshet waters it is feared the dam will go out unless the sluiceway can be repaired.

The dam, on a feeder stream of the Sacandaga reservoir, was built to keep water above a big area of mud banks and stagnant pools during the dry summer season.

Today

Kingston: "The Greeks Had a Word for Them." A clever and entertaining story of three gold diggers who know all of the tricks of the trade. There are numerous complications and implications that arise before the play is ended, and anyone liking sophisticated drama will thoroughly enjoy this talkie. One of the greatest reasons for the success of the play is due to the cast. Ina Claire, Madge Evans, and Joan Blondell couldn't be improved upon as the three gold diggers, and Lowell Sherman and David Manners are good as two of the gentlemen who fall under the spell of their charms.

Orpheum: "Girls About Town" and "Partners." Kay Francis, Lilyan Tashman, Joel McCrea, and Eugene Pallette are the featured players in the first picture, a story of girls about town whose duty seems to be keeping the tired business men from being too tired. There are some bright comedy spots in this show. "Partners," offering Tom Keene in his latest western thriller.

Broadway: "False Madonna" and "Seven Acts of Paramount Vaudeville" on the stage. The talkie is unusual melodrama, with Kay Francis playing the part of a woman who poses as the mother of a rich, blind boy, in order to swindle him out of his money. The boy's complete helplessness makes her repent her actions, and she wonders which way to turn. There is no comedy in this play, but it is well acted, and human. Kay Francis, William Boyd, and Conway Tearle are in the cast, but John Breiden, a newcomer to the screen, steals the show in the role of the helpless and lovable blind boy. The stage show offers "Belsky, the Iron Man," Jack McCluskey and Co. with Marlon Wallace, "Farrell and Florence," "Jack Joyce and John," and three other Paramount stage acts.

Ritz: "Hell Divers." Acclaimed by critics everywhere as an unusually fine picture in action, plot, entertainment, and direction, this whirlwind story of the United States Naval Air Force, and what they do during peacetime, proves to be thrilling, grade A entertainment from the first glint of the camera to the last. There are some exceptional scenes that will leave an audience breathless, there is a corking good plot, and a fine cast that includes Wallace Berry, Clark Gable, Dorothy Jordan, Conrad Nagel, Marjorie Rambeau, and Marie Prevost. The help of the Naval Air Forces makes this picture the more realistic, and the work of Berry and Gable as friendly enemies lends spice to an already entertaining picture. The most interesting and thrilling part of the play comes when one man sacrifices his life that his pals may live. Swell entertainment.

Tomorrow

Kingston: Same.

Orpheum: "Lady with a Past" and "Ridin' Fool." The first is a sophisticated story with some very good comedy, and a little risqué spots. Good entertainment for the grown ups. "Ridin' Fool" offers Bob Steele in another western story.

Broadway: Same.

Ritz: Same

This Game of Golf

By G. H. KEEFER

It is about time I corrected a little impression concerning Mrs. O. S. Hill of Kansas City, our western golf champion—that is, champion of the women's western association—and more lately winner over Miss Maureen O'Connell in the final round of the big annual invitation tournament at the Augusta Country Club.

Mrs. Hill also considers it about time. As I certainly helped in creating the impression, I shall do my best.

"You've been saying," Mrs. Hill said at Augusta, "that I started golf when I was 35 years old. And now that I've been playing—well, something like eight or nine years, why, that would make me—well, more than 40. And I'm not, really. I'm in my 39th year, and I started golf a bit after I was 30."

Thirty It Was

Far be it from this reporter to do a lady an injustice in the matter of years. So from now on Mrs. Hill started golf shortly after she entered the thirties.

But this does not minimize the fact that Mrs. Hill, just two years and six months, lacking two days, after she took up golf, played in the national championship at St. Louis in 1925, qualified in tenth position with an 87, defeated Mrs. John Arends and Miss Helen Payson in the first two rounds, and lost to Miss Edith Cummings in a desperate bout in round 3.

Nor does it detract from the record of the Kansas City matron, who has a son nearly 17 years old—a record that includes the North and South, two Western, and three Trans-Mississippi titles, as well as victory twice for medal honors in the national championship.

Still A Glitter

At the Hill course of the Augusta Country Club—now named for Mrs. Hill—she added to her reputation as a medalist by scoring an 81 the first time she had played the course. To lead the field, with Miss O'Connell and other strong players, by five strokes. She beat Miss Peggy Watiles on the 20th green of a tremendous match; her fifth victory in as many starts over the charming Peggy. And she shot a 79 at Miss O'Connell in the finals, to win, 2-1, and square their own accounts. In the last eight holes of the match she scored seven in five par, precisely.

Yes—I think Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City, still is a remarkable golfer, even if she was only 30 when she started to play.

First Practice for K. H. S. Baseball Squad

Kingston High School baseball squad, about 75 in number, held its first practice of the season at the Athletic Field Monday afternoon with Assistant Coach Dick Whiston supervising. The session consisted mostly of limbering up exercises and a little work with the bat, each candidate for the varsity getting a slice or two at the horsehide.

Among those at the practice were five of last year's veterans, Willard Thomas, Joe Mahar and John Cullen, pitchers; Luke Roosa, catcher and Ed. Burgevin, third baseman. These prospective towers of strength with a number of others, received uniforms for further practice. Workouts will be held every afternoon this week.

As the baseball season opens on Saturday, April 23, Coach Kias and his lieutenant, Dick Whiston, will have to cover a lot of ground in the drills to have the K. H. S. varsity ready for competition in the DUSO League.

Killefer Says End Of Bonus System Will Prove Aid To Browns' Team Play

With no prospect of players disrupting team play by working for individual bonuses, Manager Bill Killefer is optimistic over the chances of the St. Louis Browns for the 1932 pennant chase. In training games in the south, Killefer is trying to unearth another winning hurler. Three of the likeliest prospects are pictured with the manager.

News from Major Training Camps

Montgomery, Ala., April 5 (AP).—Manager Max Carey, of the Brooklyn Dodgers, seems to have come to the conclusion that it will never do to weaken his infield in two spots by shifting Joe Stripp, a natural third baseman, to first base in place of the ailing Del Blonstone.

Stripp is a fairly capable man at first, but he's a much better at third. With Stripp at third, Wright at short and Cuccinello at second base, the Dodgers have only to worry about first base. Murray Howell is being tried there now, but the chances are Carey will secure an experienced guard for that sack by trade or purchase before the season opens.

Lighter Bat for Babe. Louisville, Ky., April 5 (AP).—Babe Ruth, of the New York Yankees, is wielding a bat much lighter and somewhat shorter than the sticks he used to carry to the plate, but the old punch is there just the same. Right now he is in the midst of a great hitting streak and opposing pitchers are having a tough time getting him out, especially when men are on the bases. Ruth has driven in 11 runs in the Yankees' last three exhibition games.

McGraw Satisfied. Carlin, Nev., April 5 (AP).—Put down John McGraw as well satisfied with his New York Giants. "As a whole," McGraw said as the team made its way eastward yesterday, "the Giants are in condition to open the season right now. If we get an even break from the weather from now on we will be in perfect condition for the start, barring accidents. I'm not predicting any pennants but I'll admit the Giants of 1932 look good to me."

Tax on Athletics To Be Paid by Fans

Chicago, April 5 (AP).—It looks as if the spectators will have to pay if Congress adopts the 10 per cent on admission tickets to athletic events. Leaders of almost every sport, questioned about the extra tax, reported that their budgets had been trimmed to such a minimum that there was nothing left but to make the public pay.

So far no major league owners have been located who intend to absorb the tax if levied and the same was true of all other branches. Big Ten athletic directors today said there was no doubt that the tax would be added to admission tickets.

—By Pap

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould

(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Tom Oliver, who covers an acre or two of centerfield territory for the Boston Red Sox, missed moving into the ranks of the champion Philadelphia Athletics, he says, because Connie Mack thought he was a left-handed batter.

Tom was with Little Rock in the Southern association, going along at a fast clip, when he was drafted by the Athletics. Somewhere, Mack got the idea that the Alabamian hit from the port side and since the A's didn't need that sort of outfield help at the time—1930—waiters were asked and Oliver was claimed by the Red Sox.

Tom got away at once to a good start with the Red Sox, winning a regular berth in center. One day later in Philadelphia, Mack was surprised to see Oliver hitting from the right side and asked when he had shifted.

"That's how close I came to sitting on the bench of a pennant outfit," Tom drawled. "I got a good break with the Red Sox and was just lucky enough to get a regular job."

Grove Takes Japanese

Oliver has canvassed the Red Sox camp sessions this spring with his accounts of experiences on the trip with Fred Lieb's all-star team to Japan.

"I could hit their pitching but I had a lot of trouble with those chop sticks," he laughs.

"They gave us a lot of good competition, at that, but the Japanese crowds were so in awe of fellows like Lefty Grove that when a home player got so much as a foul off Lefty it was the cause for an outburst of cheering.

"The first time Grove went into the box late in the game he struck out the side in two successive innings. The next time he pitched I think somebody hit a pop fly between strikes."

"When that fellow bops down he has something. Before we left San Francisco, we played some exhibition games under the lights. Grove started a game and almost beamed the first batter with a fast ball. This so disturbed Lefty that he eased up, used his half-speed ball and was pounded all over the place.

"The fans began to ride him and Cochrane, so Grove decided he would show 'em. His pride was touched. He had me warm him up between innings, then he went out and just threw that ball past 'em for two more frames. They couldn't touch him."

Al Gives Lesson

Oliver, whose inquisitiveness about baseball covers a wide range, spent some time pitching to Al Simmons at Hot Springs before reporting to the Sox camp for the purpose of studying the American league batting champion's form.

"Boy, I'm telling you he hit every thing, high or low, to all parts of the field. The only thing he didn't seem to like especially was a ball just above the waist and inside, but he probably will murder that kind of a pitch, too, when he really gets warmed up."

Champions Play Battery A Friday

Battery C of Poughkeepsie, champion team of the 156th Field Artillery Basketball League, will invade the Kingston armory Friday night for a battle with Battery A quintet which hopes to trim the champs in impressive style.

Sergeant Roy Houghtaling of the local five has announced that the following National Guardsmen will be on hand to defend the banner of Battery A: Stanley Colvin, Frank Wolcott, Harold Coons and himself, guards; Randy Kieffer and Buck Zates, centers; V. Kieffer, Tom Lewis and "Coke" Costello, forwards.

Starting time of the game is 8 o'clock. Previous to it there will be a preliminary to the Z. N. P. Club and the team of Headquarters Battery, starting at 8 o'clock.

Following the basketball contests there will be a dance with music by Zucca's orchestra.

The price of admission for the games and dance is considerably lower than that usually charged at the armory and the soldiers hope that many fans will take advantage of the reduction. Reserved seats are on sale now.

Stanley Cup Series Will Open Tonight

New York, April 5 (AP).—The New York Rangers, National League Champions, and the Toronto Maple Leafs, open their series for the Stanley Cup here tonight.

The cup will go to the team first winning three games in the five-game series. All contests will be played to a decision with "sudden death" overtime in the event the rivals are tied at the end of the regulation three periods.

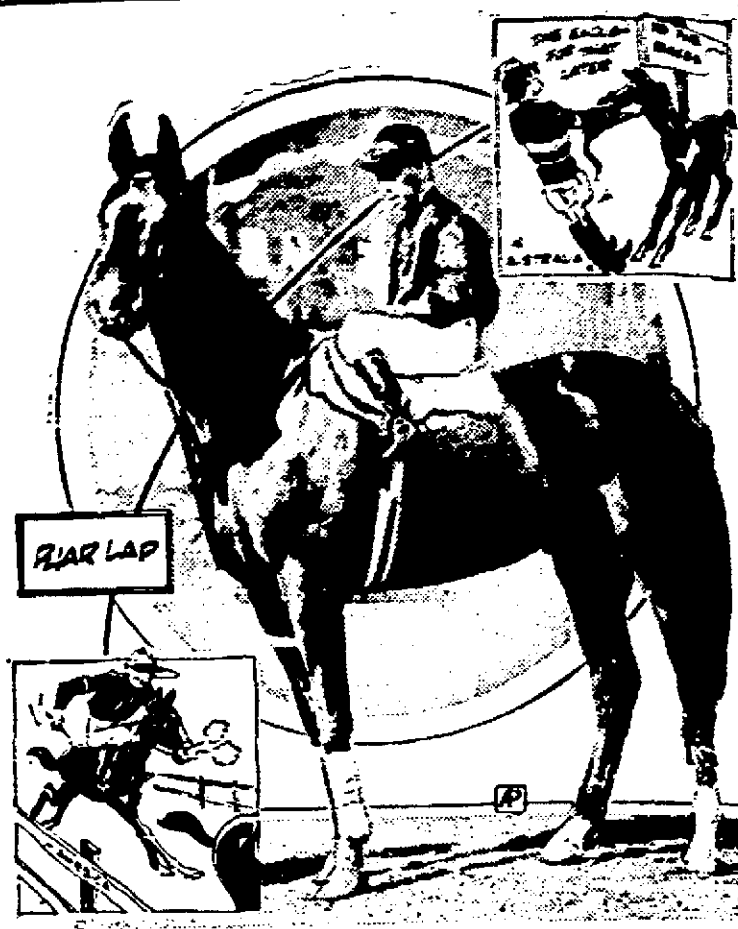

After the opening game the Rangers will take their second "home" game to Boston Thursday night since Madison Square Garden will not be available. The third game will be played in Toronto Saturday night and the fourth and fifth, if necessary, at Toronto Tuesday and Thursday of next week.

Neither team could be called a pronounced favorite.

During the regular National Hockey League season the Leafs outscored the Rangers 155 goals to 134, but the Rangers permitted the opposition 112 goals compared with 127 scored on the Leafs.

The teams clashed six times during the regular league season and Toronto won four games and the Rangers two. The goal count favored Toronto in these games, 24 to 13.

Open Eyes Of American Turfmen

Charges that American horses are "burned out" as colts have sprung up following the easy victory of Phar Lap, six-year-old gelding from Australia, in the $50,000 Agua Caliente handicap. The "Red Terror," shown above with jockey Bill Elliott, never went beyond a furlong or two until he reached full maturity.

Tellier Gives Close Run To Masked Marvel

Julius Tellier, local billiard expert, threw a scare into the Masked Marvel Monday night at the parlor of Nick Kaslich by giving him one of the closest runs for victory that he has had within three months. Tellier, outstanding cue artist in the Kingston pocket billiard tournament, lost to the Marvel by the surprising score of 78-100.

The match lasted 14 innings with the Marvel making the highest runs of 29 and 28 while Tellier had 19 and 12. Each man played two safes.

The Marvel is Marcell Camp, who in the last national tourney eliminated Frank Taborski and Irwin Rudolph, two of the country's best. He is 22 years old and lives in Detroit.

Witnessing the contest and exhibition of fancy and trick shots by the Marvel following it, was one of the largest gatherings of billiard enthusiasts ever seen in the Kaslich parlor. Because of his showing against Camp, Tellier is now the favorite to many to win the Kingston billiard championship.

Prior to appearing at the Kaslich parlor, the Marvel defeated Art Bil-you, 100-23 at the Colonial rooms, North Front street.

The National League Advances on American

New York, April 5 (AP).—Just stretch this spring training season for a few more weeks and the National League might pull up on even terms with the American in their inter-league series.

From an impressive .650 two weeks ago the American League's winning average against the National had shrunk to a modest .531 today, based on 25 victories and 18 defeats in 43 games.

As a matter of fact had the world champion St. Louis Cardinals upheld their end, the National League might be in the lead. Of six contests with American League rivals the Cardinals won only the first.

Of the American League's 25 victories the New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics have contributed nine each. Detroit has won four games and Boston, Washington and Cleveland one each.

The New York Giants with three wins and one defeat, and the Phillies with a record of four victories in six starts are the only National League clubs boasting an average of better than .500 against the junior circuit.

Against all major league opposition, whether or not of inter or intraleague character, the Boston Red Sox and Washington Senators each have perfect records. That's not as impressive as it might sound, however, for each has played only one game against a major league team. The real leaders are the New York Giants with ten victories and four defeats.

In games of all descriptions, major and minor league competition combined, Washington leads with 14 victories and one defeat. The Chicago White Sox and Cleveland Indians have won 12 and lost 1 each and the Boston Red Sox nine and one. The Giants lead the National League in this respect with 29 victories and eight defeats.

Maroon and White Track Athletes Drill

Kingston High School expects to have a formidable track team this year. Tuesday afternoon a group of runners and those specializing in other field events participated in a light workout, consisting of a jog over the hills in the rear of the school. Drills will be held regularly every week to whip the athletes of the Maroon and White into shape for the opening date of the track and field season, Saturday, April 23. On that day the local barriers, shotputters, etc., will compete in a meet at Cornwall.

George Lott Retires From Davis Cup Team

Philadelphia, April 5 (AP).—Press of personal affairs on a young Chicago business man may prove a severe blow to the United States in this year's Davis Cup competition. It probably will break up the Lott-Van Ryn combination, which holds the Wimbledon doubles title and which won the Davis Cup doubles against England last year. The team has been counted on to win the doubles for the United States this year.

George M. Lott made known his position yesterday in a telegram to the sports editor of a Philadelphia newspaper which said: "I am retiring from Davis Cup competition this year for business reasons."

With the ranking No. 2 player unavailable, Wilmer Allison appears to be the strongest candidate to support John Van Ryn in the doubles. He recently won the Pan-American championship and probably will be in the running for both singles and doubles berths.

The Davis Cup selection committee is expected to announce late this week the names of the players who will represent this country on the challenging trail.

Barkley, Veteran Of Politics, Known As 'Iron Man' Orator

By OSCAR LEIDING

Washington (AP)—A man whose political philosophy has been formed by lifelong study and seasoned by 26 years "on the hill" will be the 1932 keynote speaker of the Democratic party.

He is Senator Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, who was still in his teens when he began winning gold medals in oratory and debate by showing the qualities that will be drawn on in the coming convention. Affirming his belief in the people, he is brief and to the point in summing up his philosophy: "In spite of shortcomings, the people in the main are entitled to be trusted with the power, and democracy is able, if properly led, to correct its own evils."

Back in the blue-grass region he is known as "the iron man," for, in campaigns, he has given from 10 to 12 speeches in a single day. His stamina is pronounced, for he is sturdy built, and now, at 54, he has a shock of dark hair that is just beginning to frost at the temples.

Always a hard worker, he draws upon a physical reserve which, when he was working his way through Marvin college, was sufficient not only to allow him to carry on his studies but to be janitor of the school and at the same time to become a champion debater, a champion runner and a jumper and a baseball and football player.

Later he studied law, making his way by learning shorthand and becoming a court reporter, where he made the contacts that gave him political ambitions. He was in his middle twenties when he successfully ran for his first elective office, that of county prosecuting attorney.

His hobbies are his books on history, biography and political philosophy, of which he has amassed a large library, where he spends most of his spare time; walking and motoring.

He also has a collection of walking sticks, obtained from all over the world, and his "joke" hobby, as he calls it, "is an irresistible desire to buy every necktie I see in the shop windows." He admits: "I usually succumb to the desire." He is widely traveled.

To keep in good condition for what he calls "the busiest session of congress, bar none," he swims in an indoor pool, walks and plays golf in season.

Entering congress as a representative at the beginning of Woodrow Wilson's first term, he offered as his first bill a measure to amend the constitution and abolish the "lame duck" session. His was a particular pride this year, then, though his name was not attached to it when the measure was passed.

"On the hill" his main interests have been in legislation dealing with interstate commerce. He helped frame the Adamson eight hour law, the transportation act of 1920 and was joint author of the bill which became the railway labor act.

He is married and has three children.

NEWS OF TODAY IN KINGSTON

It's hard to keep depression out of this column even when there isn't a depression for news, but every place you go these days the conditions are staring you in the face.

For instance, take a walk up Broadway and you'll find among the automobiles a poor old mare hauling a buggy with one or more occupants looking longingly at the gasoline vehicles passing by. The only thing they're getting out of life is a good sun bath during their slow progress.

The driver doesn't look like the contented buggy pilot of years ago. He sits there as though ready to apply the brake or push in the clutch to shift and probably often presses hard on the floor boards with his foot, as though giving her the gas, but then suddenly realizes "Old Peg" doesn't move any faster. Boy, that's depression for you.

Even bicycles are coming back and we'll soon be giving the boys in London a race. When real elderly respectable looking gentlemen tighten up their trouser legs, hop on the seat from the gutter edge and go sprocketing up the street, hard times are really here.

You hear people talking about high taxes, feeding the unemployed and Broadway getting bumpy again, but they never stop to consider that they are taking care of people that are satisfied with three squares a day, and no work. What makes it worse the poor are feeding the poor.

In all we are not as bad around here as in other parts of the country. As yet we have not offered the youngest in the family for sale so that the rest might be fed. When that begins we'll start tearing down buildings and putting them up again.

Captain R. A. Dechene of the American Legion Drum Corps gave some interesting information about the future plans and past accomplishments of the corps.

At present the representatives of the local legion are getting in shape for competition in Germantown on April 21-22 and in West New York on May 15. Then there will be the state competition in Brooklyn around the first of August.

So far this year the corps has been mighty successful. It took first prize in Brooklyn for appearance on March 19 and second prize at Albany in March 30. This is a good start. The reward at Brooklyn was a silver trophy, the only one the Legion ever won. All the other prizes were cash.

"This present success has aroused great interest among the members of the corps," said Dechene, "and I'm sure our accomplishments of the year will still be greater."

There are now 52 men in the ranks, which is an increase of 12

CHARACTER OF SOIL SHAPES MAN'S LIFE

Due to Plant Growth Peculiar to Certain Areas.

Washington.—The character of the soil—the few inches or few feet of ground that form the outer skin of the earth—has very largely molded the way of life of millions of people throughout the world, says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

"Other factors, such as moisture and temperature, are important in plant growth," continues the bulletin, "but the fundamental factor is the soil itself, the medium in which roots can anchor themselves, and from which they can draw their food supplies."

"The great loess region of north China is a striking example of the effect of soil on customs. This light loam, deposited by the wind, is easily drained, and none too well supplied with moisture. It dictates the growth of wheat and other hardy grains instead of rice. The northern Chinese, therefore, are non-rice eating folk. Their dry soil also decrees the raising of live stock; so it is here that China has its greatest concentration of sheep and cattle."

Flood irrigation.

"The lower Yangtze valley forms a marked contrast to the loess region. With its basins of rich alluvial soil, which responds well to wet culture, it is the center of China's rice production. In this region the soil condition has brought about dependence almost exclusively on rice as a vegetable food, the practice of flood irrigation, and the raising of poultry rather than large farm animals."

"In the United States the great 'corn belt' near the center of the country has been marked out by deep, easily-penetrated soil, although temperature and moisture conditions also are important factors in making this the greatest maize-producing region of the world. Corn is an excellent food for animals. It is largely because of its soil and temperature, therefore, that this region has become the great cattle-raising and hog-raising section of the United States."

"Two of man's chief luxuries, tobacco and wine, are more strongly affected by soil differences than almost any other agricultural products. In the United States cigar leaf tobacco is grown best on certain soils of the Connecticut valley, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Wisconsin. The Burley types grow on the blue-grass soils of Kentucky and adjoining states to the north; and the bright tobaccos, used in cigarettes, on the light soils of the Carolinas and nearby Virginia."

"The most famous Cuban tobacco, which has at times sold as high as $20 a pound, can be grown only on soil in about 25 square miles. Two other restricted areas produce the second and third most famous Cuban tobaccos. On special soils in Macedonia and Asia Minor are grown the celebrated Turkish tobaccos, with flavors and aromas that cannot be duplicated elsewhere."

"Each of the noted wines of France owes its special character to the soil on which the grapes grow."

What Soil Is Made Of.

"This priceless soil layer, on which all of the world's land vegetation and land animals are dependent, is nothing more than broken up bits of rock into which the decayed remains of vegetable and animal forms have been mixed. Chemically, there are three broad types of soil: alkaline, neutral, and acid. It is in accordance with their physical characteristics, however, that soils are usually classified."

"Sand is the soil of coarsest particles. Through it water drains easily, little being imprisoned, and not much mineral matter goes into solution from its hard grains. Pure sand, therefore, does not make a satisfactory soil for growing crops."

"At the other end of the scale, physically, is clay. Its particles are so fine that they are not found in a separate state, but stick together with water in large groups. Whereas pure sand is too 'light' for satisfactory crop production, pure clay is too 'heavy.'"

"Between sand and clay lies the wide range of useful soils, made up of particles smaller than those of sand and larger than those of clay; or else of varying proportions of sand and clay, with the addition in most cases of mixtures of lime, other mineral salts, and decayed vegetable matter."

"The soil, as the feeding ground of plant roots, is in truth much more than a mere group of fragments of rock and humus. It consists of soil 'crumbs' composed of groups of microscopic particles; the obvious spaces between them; the water, air, and other gases that circulate between the crumbs and are imprisoned in them; minerals in solution, and the bacteria and microscopic animal life that exist underground. It is from the mineral solution that surround and permeate the soil crumbs that the tiny rootlets draw most of their nourishment."

Legion County Meet At Ellenville April 6

The American Legion posts of Ulster county will hold a county meeting in Ellenville on Wednesday evening, April 6, at 8 o'clock. The guest speaker will be District Attorney Cleon B. Murray, who is a member of Ellenville post.

The attendance at the county meetings of the Legion, under the leadership of County Commander Edward J. Luedike, has been expanding to such proportions that it is difficult to find a building in which to hold the meetings. This is because the business sessions are so interesting and because of the good time had afterwards.

In Ellenville, the Legion members will meet in the large dance hall of the village while the ladies' auxiliary will meet in the Memorial building. There will be dancing after the meeting and refreshments. Everything will be free of charge.

Matters of importance will come up for action in each meeting and the men and women of the Legion in Ellenville are noted for the entertainment they provide at county meetings. County Commander Luedike urges Legionnaires and Auxiliaries of the county to be present at Ellenville Wednesday night to make the meeting the biggest and best ever.

REPORT OF TROOP 12

PARENTS' NIGHT.

On Friday, April 1, Troop 12, of the Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the First Dutch Reformed Church, held its annual parents' night ceremonies. By commencement hour, 7:45 p. m., a fairly large crowd filled all the available seats.

The program, planned by Mr. Spencer, the Scoutmaster, that was run off, was as follows:

First call, Brigham, bugler Assembly.

Opening ceremony, Lloyd Spencer, Assistant Scoutmaster.

"America" Mr. Edson Talk.

Candle ceremony, led by E. Doolin, A. S. M.

Installation of Brigham as Patrol Leader of the "Cut" Patrol.

Patrol demonstrations, led by L. Spencer.

Patrol stunts, led by Clarke.

Movies of Camp (Mihanahawa).

Retreat, led by Clarke.

Taps by Brigham.

Dismissal.

The movies of Camp Mihanahawa were most generally enjoyed and gave that camp a fine reputation for excellence as there was never a dull minute with water sports, games, camp fires, merit badge instruction (and these badges cover about everything in scouting), and eats. The site for next year's camp has not yet been determined but it will not be at Mihanahawa.

After the general program, the visitors inspected the various patrol rooms and closets containing Scout equipment.

We extend our thanks to the friends who attended our past ceremony and a welcome to them and to those other friends who were unable to attend, to come next year.
